THE MARCH OF PROGRESS!
OUR LATEST IMPROVEMENTS!

"Competition is the Life of Trade," and if you have not seen our latest improved goods you cannot imagine how lively trade is or how hard our competitors have to work to keep within sight of us. Ask your retailers for the James Means $3 Shoe, or the James Means $4 Shoe, according to your needs.

Positively none genuine unless having our name and price stamped plainly on the soles. Your retailer will supply you with shoes so stamped if you insist upon his doing so. If you do not insist some retailers will coax you into buying inferior shoes upon which they make a larger profit.

JAMES MEANS' $4 SHOE

Such has been the recent progress in our branch of industry that we are now able to affirm that the James Means $4 shoe is in every respect equal to the shoes which only a few years ago were retailed at eight or ten dollars. If you will try one pair you will be convinced that we do not exaggerate. Ours are the original $3 and $4 shoes, and those who imitate our system of business are unable to compete with us in quality of factory products. In our lines we are the largest manufacturers in the United States.

One of our traveling salesmen who recently visited the Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain region writes from there as follows:

I am more than satisfied with the results of my trip. I have thus far succeeded in placing our full line in the hands of A No. 1 dealers at every point I have visited. ... [illegible] ... paying six or seven dollars a pair for shoes which are not as good as JAMES MEANS $3 and $4 SHOES. Our shoes with their very low retail prices ... breaking down the high prices which have hitherto ruled in the retail markets here, and when a retailer once gets a full line of our goods in his stock they at once begin to go off like hot cakes ...

Now, kind reader, just stop and consider what the above signifies so far as you are concerned. It assures you that if you keep on buying shoes bearing no manufacturer's name or fixed retail price stamped on the soles you cannot tell what you are getting, and your retailer is probably making you pay ... what your shoes have cost him. Now can you afford to do this while we are protecting you by stamping our name and the fixed retail price upon the soles of our shoes before they leave our factories so that you cannot be made to pay more for your shoes than they are worth?

Shoes from our celebrated factory are sold by wide awake retailers in all parts of the country. We will place them easily within your reach in any State or Territory if you will invest one cent in a postal card and write to us.

SORE FROM KNEE TO ANKLE.

Skin entirely gone. Flesh a mass of disease. Leg diminished one third in size. Condition Hopeless. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle; the skin was entirely gone and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one-third the size of the other and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try your Cuticura Remedies, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified and the bone, which had been exposed for over a year, got sound. The flesh began to grow, and to-day, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever it was, sound in every respect, and not a sign of the disease to be seen.

DEATH RODE THE GALE

Many People Picked Up in the Streets of Montreal.

A STEAM COLLIER GOES DOWN

And With Her Perished the Crew of Eighteen Men. The Most Terrific Storm in the Memory of Man

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.—One of the most severe storms of snow and wind known for years became general over the province and Ontario Sunday evening, and still continues. The wind at times blew as hard as seventy miles per hour. The streets and surrounding country are covered with snowdrifts ten feet deep in places, and the most severe cold prevails. Horse car lines here have stopped running. Forty four people were picked up in the streets by the police Sunday night unable to make their way through the storm, being either benumbed by cold or bewildered by the wind. The storm was felt more severely on the Lower St. Lawrence than anywhere else. The steamer Pomeranian, bound for Liverpool, which was grounded at Sorel, made an attempt to reach Quebec Sunday with the aid of four tugs. She got as far as Batiscan, eighty five miles this side of Quebec, where she anchored for the night. Yesterday not only the steamship but four tugs too were frozen in solid. The Pomeranian will not get through this season. She will probably be forced ashore on the rock and become a total loss. The Allan Steamship Company, which owns her, will lose over $300 000.

At Quebec the gale is raging furiously and the iron ferry boats that ply between that point and Point Levis are caught in the ice which threatens to crush them. The steamship Polino, bound from Cape Breton to Quebec, was seen struggling against the gale and ice in the gulf off Fame Point, 320 miles below Quebec at daylight. She suddenly disappeared and has not been seen or reported since. There are fears that she has been lost. She had forty passengers, a crew of thirty and a general cargo.

VESSELS THAT RODE THE STORM

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The steamers Hans and Kurt, Arizona, Gallia and Wyanoke were the only vessels to reach port to-day. All report having been caught in a hurricane, but so far as known the first named was the only one that sustained any damage, and that is about the decks.

A COLLIER PROBABLY LOST

Little Doubt That the Allentown of Philadelphia Went Down

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 27.—It is reported that the Philadelphia collier Allentown has foundered off Cohasset. There seems to be little doubt that the steamer sank on some of the ledges directly outside that port. At 2 P. M. Sunday a number of people at the village heard a steamer's whistle. Last night an immense amount of wreckage came ashore at Sandy Grove and on Sandy beach, marks upon which indicated conclusively that it must be some of the Allentown.

ALL DOUBT REMOVED

COHASSET, Mass., Nov. 27.—All day long wreckage of various descriptions has been coming ashore along the beaches, more particularly at Sandy Cove. Huge timbers, spars, cabin furniture, fine inside furnishings, chairs, life preservers and other articles appertaining to a steamer's outfit, and many of them stamped with the word Allentown, have been seen in the breakers off shore, and found scattered along the water front. This wreckage tells too plainly that the fine iron steamer Allentown has been broken up on one of the huge sunken ledges of this port, always a terror to mariners.

Capt. Nathaniel W. Treat, one of Cohasset's oldest seafaring men, and from whom the first intimation of the disaster came, said in his opinion the vessel had foundered, either on the sea ledges or on the grampus, which are long sunken ledges lying about three miles from the nearest point of the mainland. If such is the case, the vessel must have gone down with all on board within a very few minutes after striking.

Since the early reports of the supposed catastrophe many of the villagers have been seen and they say they distinctly heard a steamer's whistle shortly after noon on Sunday, repeated at brief intervals for an hour or more, as if signalling for assistance or a pilot. It was so thick at the time that nothing could be seen at so great a distance from shore, and even if any observation could have been made no boat could live in the tremendous sea then prevailing.

OTHER EVIDENCES OF THE STORM

The schooner Lesano, before reported as stranded on Pleasant Beach, has gone to pieces. Her deck was lifted clear off the vessel and piled in a confused mass on the beach beside the hull of another schooner.

Summer cottages and summer structures on the water front are wrecked and their ruins line the beach. Many of the beautiful drives to the summer residences are washed away or badly gutted and covered with wreckage. The greatest damage to land property is along Crescent beach, between Green hill and Gun rock. Along this stretch is a line of from twenty to forty small summer cottages averaging in size 20x30 feet. There is not a single one of these that does not bear marks of the terrible force of the storm. Some of them were lifted from their foundations and carried back several feet. The total loss to property on this beach will reach many thousands of dollars. At the Hotel Nantasket the covered promenade connecting it with the Rockland cafe was partly destroyed by wind. The roadbed of the Nantasket Beach branch of the Old Colony railroad is entirely washed out from the Hotel Standish to a point half a mile north west of the Ocean house.

The wrecked brig Alice is rapidly breaking up and has been stripped of everything portable.

A CREW OF EIGHTEEN MEN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—The steamer Allentown, reported lost off Cohasset, had a crew of eighteen men and was commanded by Capt. O'Brienne.

AT ATLANTIC CITY

The Greatest Destruction in the History of the Incorporation

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 27.—The storm has abated and the sun is now shining brightly. A survey of the situation shows that no such destruction of property on this beach has been known since the incorporation of the city. Hundreds of property owners from Philadelphia and other localities have come down fearing their property would be swept away last night. The tide receded to-day and the sea, under the influence of a northwest wind, was beaten down, but the result especially in the lower portions of the city is one of almost complete destruction. The work of the waves was quick and complete and individual losses are numerous. In the excursion house district the destruction of property is enormous, although unexpected, as a survey shows that for twenty years the beach in that section has changed but little and danger from storms was not anticipated. The beach to-day was lined with thousands of residents and visitors, including photographers and artists, sketching the ruins. Many of the sufferers by the storm are people of moderate means, and their losses will be severely felt in the coming winter.

AT SAG HARBOR.

The Heaviest Seas in the Memory of the Inhabitants

SAG HARBOR, L. I., Nov. 27.—Half of this village was inundated yesterday. The Nassau house, the principal hotel, has been unable to serve its guests with meals since Sunday, the kitchen being under water. More than half a mile of the Long Island railroad track in this village was washed out. For the first time within the memory of the inhabitants the water from the Atlantic reached Peconic bay. Heavy seas and high tides forced a channel through the outer beach to Shinnecock bay and caused the bay to rise over six feet, and the tide to flow through the canal to Peconic bay.

THE LIFE SAVING SERVICE

Improved Boats to be Sent to the New Stations on This Coast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The superintendent of the life saving service will shortly issue proposals for the construction of a life saving station to be erected near Golden Gate. It is also proposed during the coming year to establish stations on the Pacific coast as follows: One at Yaquina bay, Oregon; one at or near the mouth of the Umpqua river, Oregon; one between McKenzie's head and Peterson's point, at the entrance of Gray's harbor, W. T.; one at Point Adams, at the mouth of the Columbia river. These stations are to be built out of the appropriation of $50 000.

In his annual report Superintendent Kimball recommends an increase in the pay of surfmen, and also the passage of a bill giving officers and men pensions.

A new style of lifeboat has been adopted for the service, and six of them will be put in use this winter. They are much lighter than those now used, are built of mahogany, and are self righting and self bailing. Three of them will be shipped to the stations on the Pacific.

It is not known yet whether a life saving station will be erected at Point Barrow, Alaska, or not. A petition for it has been sent from whalers in New Bedford. The superintendent is in favor of establishing a harbor of refuge at some convenient point where all the appliances of the service can be had and every comfort for shipwrecked people secured.

GARDNER PLACED ON TRIAL

Defendant Appears in Court With Bandaged Eyes—A Jury Secured

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 27.—The first of the famous opium smuggling cases was moved at the opening of the United States court this morning. Defendant is Erwin A. Gardner, who has been indicted for smuggling an aggregate of 3800 pounds of opium. Gardner was once special agent of the government, when he acquired full knowledge of the methods of the customs collectors. One of the branches of the case is his trial for conspiracy for an alleged combination to steal captured opium packages from the Ogdensburg custom house, and substituting blocks of wood for the double purpose of getting the opium and destroying evidence. Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Little, whose office is next to the room in which the opium was stored, Lawyer Stone and Janitor Comiskey were arrested on a charge of conspiracy and theft. Gardner, who had given bail, was subsequently again arrested at Chicago while trying to sell the opium.

John C. Haines, a prominent lawyer of Seattle, W. T., is also one of the defendants in this part of the case.

Gardner was brought into court at 10 this morning. His eyes are weak and he wore bandages over them. Ex-Congressman Crowley of Lockport appeared as his counsel. U. S. District Attorney Lockwood and Assistant Hoyt represented the government.

A jury was obtained and Assistant Hoyt opened the case, relating the story of the smuggling operations.

The first witness called for the government was J. Chandler Houghton, special agent of the treasury department. He testified to arresting Gardner and his cousin Ephraim Redwood, and confiscating their trunks. He searched Ephraim's barn and found 780 pounds of opium concealed amongst baled hay.

Four trunks of opium were brought into court and identified as confiscated goods.

Albert Rowland, deputy collector at Morristown, who was with Houghton when he made the arrest, corroborated his testimony.

THE GOVERNMENT CLOSES

After recess many witnesses for the government were examined. Wm. H. Daniels, ex collector of the port of Ogdensburg, testified that Gardner had told him about a lot of opium being shipped to San Francisco, and that if the matter of his arrest could be kept quiet he would tell at the proper time who shipped it.

The government closed its case this evening and ex Congressman Richard Crowley of Lockport, counsel for Gardner, asked the court to direct a verdict of not guilty on the ground that the indictment did not follow the language of the statutes and did not charge defendant with bringing an article into the United States upon which duty was levied. The indictment describes the smuggled opium as "smoking opium." In the revised statutes it is described as "opium prepared for smoking." The court denied the motion and adjournment was taken until to-morrow morning.

BARRY'S LABOR ORGANIZATION

It Will Differ From the Knights in Many Important Respects

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Thomas Barry, the noted ex-Knight of Labor, remained in Chicago until to-night to prepare the ground for the coming meeting of twenty five or thirty delegates to the Knights of Labor general convention, whom he expects to assemble here and start the proposed new opposition organization meeting.

It is understood he will issue a declaration of principles. This declaration, as far as at present evolved, is to repeat all the charges so frequently made against the Powderly administration, and will demand the eight hour day, the abolition of child labor, the regulation of female labor, manual training and factory and store inspection.

It will denounce the alleged antagonism of the K. of L. to trades unions, and particularly the intolerance of the Knights to members of the federation of labor. Unlike the Knights the new organization will not debar from membership the federations.

The declaration will charge that the Knights are too largely composed of Irish and Americans. The new organization will aim to be cosmopolitan. Individual local assemblies will be independent, acknowledge no general executive board and pay no tribute to general officers, but keep the money at home for use in the struggle for the eight hour day.

The organization is to be secret in the same sense as the Knights of Labor, but it is intended that there shall be open meetings for the purpose of discussing political questions. Indeed the chief distinguishing feature of the new organization is to be the active interest it will take in politics, and for this purpose the order will use either the democrats or the republicans as the locality or other circumstances may demand.

THE RESTRICTION TREATY

The Chinese Foreign Office Trying to Bring About Its Ratification

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—It is stated here that the restriction treaty between this country and China, which was pending at the time the exclusion bill was passed, may yet be ratified. This at least is what the Chinese foreign office is endeavoring to accomplish through the slow medium of diplomatic correspondence. It is also stated, and this too comes from an official source, that the stories current several months ago of China's intention to retaliate on Americans in China for the summary action taken by this government are lacking in every essential element of truth. The members of the Chinese foreign office never contemplated such a course for a moment, nor will they justify it even in the event of their ultimate failure to secure a settlement of the matter.

NOW A RAILROAD TRUST

The Scheme of Gould, Huntington, Adams and Others.

THEY CALL IT A CLEARING HOUSE

A. N. Towne and Chauncey M. Depew Discredit the Story—The Northern Pacific and the Puyallup Reservation

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The local papers say: For several weeks past Jay Gould, C. P. Huntington, Charles Francis Adams, W. B. Strong and other railroad magnates interested in Western railroads have been holding conferences in New York, in which Chairman Midgely of the Southwestern Railroad Association has taken a prominent part. The object of these conferences has been kept a profound secret. Saturday the announcement was made by the conference that a grand agreement had been made whereby the cattle rates among the Southwestern roads would be enforced and rates advanced from 5 to 25 per cent as soon as possible. But this announcement is no nearer the truth than previous reports regarding the mysterious conference. The railroad magnates evidently desire to keep everybody in ignorance of the actual importance of the proposed agreement until all arrangements have been perfected and their new scheme put in operation.

It has been learned, however, that the project contemplates nothing more nor less than the formation of a gigantic railroad trust or clearing house, comprising all the roads between the points west of a line drawn through Chicago and Milwaukee on the east, St. Paul and Minneapolis on the North, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming on the west and Arkansas on the south. All existing freight and passenger associations within the territory named will be abolished and merged in the new trust or Clearing House, as it is named. There will be an executive board of three, which shall devote its entire time to the affairs of the Clearing House and be intrusted with all matters connected therewith. One of the three is to be elected chairman of the Clearing House and the other two are to be known as vice chairmen of the passenger and freight departments respectively. The chairman, it is understood, is to be J. W. Midgley, who under the terms of the agreement would be a greater man than Commissioner Fink, virtually having full control and management so far as the traffic affairs are concerned of all roads between Chicago and the Rocky mountains.

The paper also prints the full text of the proposed agreement, of which the above gives a general outline, and says it has been submitted to the presidents of the leading roads.

OPINION OF A. N. TOWNE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—"The portion of the telegram relating to a gigantic railroad trust which is said to have been formed between Jay Gould, Charles Francis Adams and W. B. Strong is, in my opinion, somewhat sensational, and I do not place any credence in it," said Manager A. N. Towne of the Southern Pacific when shown the dispatch from Chicago to-day concerning the reported formation of this trust. "There has been some talk about the formation of a clearing house something similar to the old trans-continental association, with a commissioner invested with greater powers, but I do not believe any agreement has as yet been reached, or I certainly would have been informed of it. As for that railroad trust, that is simply a sensation. You may say, however, that a clearing house would be beneficial to the railroads and the people."

DEPEW'S OPINION

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Chauncey M. Depew, when shown the dispatch from Chicago outlining the vast railway pool contemplated, said he had heard nothing of it before and did not attach much importance to it. He supposed it was one of the many schemes daily proposed for settlement of railroad questions.

CONGRESS ALONE HAS POWER

Decision of the Department in the Matter of the Puyallup Branch

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—In the matter of the application of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company for authority to construct a spur, or short branch line, through the Puyallup Indian reservation in Washington territory, the secretary of the interior has denied the application, holding that congress alone has authority in the premises.

THE OYSTER REBELLION

Maryland Will Seek Help From the Secretary of War.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 27.—Gov. Jackson, in an interview to-day, said: "The situation of the oyster rebellion which confronts the state authorities is this: There are 800 oyster vessels whose crews, aggregating about 5000 armed men, are banded together to dredge on certain grounds and to drive off any state force sent against them. To oppose them the state has fourteen vessels, most of them small sloops, manned by about 100 men. We have reached a stage where this force cannot cope with the marauders and I shall adopt measures for the enforcement of the law. I have reason to believe that the secretary of war at Washington will grant us the use of five, six or eight pound cannons, which will be placed on the state steamers and at spots on shore to be selected hereafter."

AN INTERNATIONAL WEDDING

The Acting British Minister Marries a New York Girl

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Miss Belle Wilson and Michael Henry Herbert, Lord Sackville West's temporary successor in charge of the British legation at Washington, were married at noon to-day. There was a brilliant gathering of friends at St. Bartholomew's church. The bride's gown was white satin trimmed with old English point lace, built high at the neck and made by Worth. She carried a bouquet of white lilies. Grace Wilson, sister of the bride, was the only bridesmaid. Arthur Herbert, a member of the British legation at Washington, but no relation of the groom, was the best man. After the ceremony the couple were driven to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding breakfast was served.

THE FIELD BROTHERS

They Assemble in the Mansion of Cyrus W. in New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Last evening there were gathered in the dining hall of Cyrus W. Field, in Gramercy park, four brothers, Hon. David Dudley Field, Justice Field of the United States supreme court, and Rev. Dr. Field, editor of the New York Evangelist. The occasion was in honor of Hon. David Dudley Field, who sailed to-day for Europe. It has been their custom for many years past to dine together annually on the 13th of February, the birthday of "Dudley," as the biggest and eldest brother is called by the others.

TRIAL OF THE ANARCHISTS

Hronek Said to Have Thrown the Haymarket Bomb.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The trial of John Hronek, for conspiracy to blow up Judges Gary and Grinnell and Police Inspector Bonfield with dynamite, was continued to-day. The first witness was Frank Chleboun, one of the conspirators who turned state's evidence. He testified as to the circumstances under which he first met the prisoner. Afterwards he met Capek and became intimate with both. He was a frequent visitor at Hronek's house. The last Sunday in May he (Hronek) told witness that he had a great scheme to burn up a lumber yard, but it had been discovered. He had also missed a chance to kill Bonfield, and was at and he would never have another. Chleboun testified at length concerning their experiments with dynamite and then said that on several occasions Hronek had said that he must have revenge for the death of the anarchists. He showed pictures of Grinnell, Gary and Bonfield. A German named Schneider told where Grinnell lived, and showed a plot of Aldine square, and on July 4 Hronek, Capek and witness went there.

They finally found the house and took a good look at it. On the way home Hronek said President Cleveland had a narrow escape when on his visit here. At that time he (Hronek) had been ready to throw a bomb at the presidential carriage, but was dissuaded by Schneider and Sevolunda. Hronek's plans were to kill Bonfield, but on talking it over with Capek decided to put an end to Judge Grinnell first. He said that if no better opportunity offered he would go into court and throw a bomb. Then if the police tried to capture him he would use a bomb on them, and if this failed he had a revolver and would shoot the officers and then himself. If he got a chance at Grinnell or Gary on the street he would use a knife.

Chleboun admitted reluctantly that he was an anarchist and had drilled with the Lehr and Wehr Verein in the old days before the Haymarket episode. He also said he had gone to Capek's house to receive instructions in the art of making dynamite. He paid $2 for the lesson, but did not learn anything. He said Hronek had told him, on the trip to Riverside, that he was the man who threw the bomb at Haymarket. At first Chleboun did not believe this, but after he saw bombs in Hronek's possession he thought it was the truth, and a few weeks later he told Attorney Fischer about it. He had told no one else prior to this.

At this point adjournment was taken until to-morrow.

AN ANARCHIST DENIAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The anarchists who took part in Sunday night's tableaux demonstration were busy to-day denying that the American flag was trampled on. Their back down is said to be due to a report that the arrest of those guilty was contemplated by the police.

LEPROSY AMONG INDIANS

The Disease Said to Have Been Communicated by Chinese.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—A Times Ottawa, Ont., special says word has been received that Chinese lepers in British Columbia have communicated the terrible disease to Indians. Senator McInnes, from British Columbia, states that out of a total Indian population of the province, which he places at 30,000, he believes there will not be 5000 living in a quarter of a century as a result of leprosy. The Columbia authorities for several years have been officially informed of the presence of Chinese lepers, but took little or no action against them, fearing that agitation of the subject would turn away the tide of immigration coming from Europe.

GRAND ARMY AFFAIRS

Commander in Chief Warner Reticent About Gen. Palmer's Threats.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Maj. Warner, the newly elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, arrived in Chicago from Kansas City this afternoon. "No, we do not discuss politics in the Grand Army," he said in answer to a question, "and if any one says so and is dissatisfied with the order he may withdraw."

Regarding the intentions of Gen. Palmer and other prominent democratic members who have decided to leave the order, charging it with being a political organization, the commander had nothing to say. "Grand Army men have decided to drop the whole matter," he said.

TERRITORIAL AFFAIRS.

A Land Case of Great Interest and Importance.

THE TRIAL OF MURDERER BLYE.

Spokane's Remarkable Growth—A Prospector's Lonely Death—A Pretty but Faithless Wife—Seattle and Tacoma

SEATTLE, Nov 27—A case was instituted and passed upon in the U S land office here to-day of more than importance [illegible] settlement of which [illegible] the title to land in many parts of the West. Some years ago the land now known as the [illegible] county poor farm, now valued at [illegible] 50,000, was [illegible] escheated to King county by [illegible] the provisions of a law passed by the territorial legislature relating to the estates of persons dying intestate and without heirs. Beriah Brown Jr of this city attempted to [illegible] the land office to file upon this land under the homestead act. His application was refused. Mr Brown claimed that under common law the property of persons dying intestate and without heirs escheated to the sovereign power and that by every legal analogy and precedent the property in question should have escheated to the United States and not to the territory, notwithstanding the law passed by the territorial legislature. He claims the legislature had no power to pass a valid law in respect to such property. The case has excited much comment.

TRIAL OF MURDERER BLYE

Several Eye Witnesses of the Killing Relate How It Occurred

WALLA WALLA, Nov [illegible]—The trial of [illegible] C Blye, the murderer of Moritz brothers on July 22 at Wallula, [illegible] began this morning. Anders [illegible] appeared for the prosecution and Allen & Crowley for the defense.

A cousin of the deceased testified: Peter and Carl Moritz and Ed Timmerman and himself went from Kabiotu across the lake to Blye's place Sunday afternoon. Mrs Peter Moritz was already there visiting Mrs Johnson, the housekeeper of Blye. On arrival he found Blye sitting on the fence of a small corral containing a stallion belonging to Moritz. He went up the hill to picket a horse he had bought and returning found the Moritz and Blye in the corral holding a rope attached to the stallion, wrangling and very noisy.

Blye left and went to the house and returned in a few minutes with a revolver. Immediately Blye rode up the hill to get the stallion which had been turned out during Blye's absence. Blye succeeded in getting the stallion nearly back to the gate when Peter shot it. Blye asked Peter to open the gate and he refused.

Blye said: "You stinker, open the gate."

Peter said: "You scoundrel, I've a notion to hit you a lick between the eyes."

Blye said: "If you don't open that gate I'll shoot you dead."

Peter said: "If you have the courage do it."

Mrs Moritz threw up her hands and asked Blye not to shoot. Blye lowered his pistol but Peter advancing toward him threateningly, he raised it and fired with fatal effect, the shot ranging downward. He fell into his wife's arms.

Immediately Blye fired at Carl, who was six yards to the right. He was shot in the groin and limped toward the stable, Blye following and shooting four more times. Blye then dismounted and went up to Timmerman, the constable, who was standing close by but who made no move to prevent the slaughter, and shook his hand, telling him he was the best friend he had. Blye then told witness to leave the place or he would kill him also. Witness saw Blye go away on horseback. Peter was carried to the stable and died in five minutes. Carl was shot in four places. Blye reloaded his pistol before he threatened me.

Ed Timmerman sworn: I went from the boat with Carl to where Blye sat. Carl said: "Blye, you have a new horse." Blye said: "Yes, I'm going to keep it until the damages due are paid." Carl said: "I guess not," and jumped the fence of the corral. Peter also jumped over, Blye following. All had hold of the rope and were quarreling. Blye said: "I've told you many times about your horse being loose and the damage he has done. Now if you want your horse go according to law, as I propose standing on my legal rights." He said the justice lived just over there, and the constable was here. Carl said: "To hell with the constable, we have the horse."

Then Blye left. When he returned he took his horse and drove the stallion back to where the killing occurred. After that he reloaded his pistol, shook hands, and then went away. While Blye was in the house Moritz let the stallion out of the corral. Blye was much excited. When Peter went toward Blye he stopped as though to pick up something. Stones were lying around.

After the shooting Blye went away, he said, to give himself up to the justice of the peace.

Catherine, wife of Peter Moritz, deceased, sworn: Was in the house when Blye came in, got his pistol and loaded it. I asked him if he was going to kill something. He said: "Yes, I have no peace at my corral." He was greatly excited. Mrs Johnson and myself followed.

Witness then corroborated the testimony of the others about the killing and continued: I caught my husband as he fell. My husband lived half an hour, Carl lived five hours.

All the parties, including the first witness, were schoolmates in Germany. This was the first quarrel they ever had. They were once in business together.

The defense claim the crime was committed under impulse without motive while defending his rights in a manner which he believed to be just.

SPOKANE'S WONDERFUL GROWTH

A Recital of Progress That Reads Like the Work of a Conjurer

SPOKANE FALLS, Nov 27—The board of trade held their annual meeting to-night and received the following report from the secretary:

Spokane Falls during the past eighteen months has made wonderful strides in population, wealth and trade [illegible]. From a place of 8000 in January last we now make a fair showing of fully 1[illegible]000 inhabitants.

Improvements have kept pace with the increase of population. The city can now show more fine, substantial business blocks than any other place of the size on the Pacific coast. Since the first of last January new residences have been built ranging in cost from $500 to $3000 and costing in the aggregate $743 256. During this period business buildings have been erected costing a total sum of $1 119 000 and five new church edifices aggregating $50 000. These alone give a grand total of $1 912 256. It may be safely assumed, by taking into account smaller buildings, that fully $2 000 000 has been put into houses alone during the past two years.

During the past year there have been seven and a half miles of streets graded at an expense of $175 000, twelve miles of sidewalk costing $25 344, and four new bridges have been built at a cost of $39 000. Sewers and surface drains have been placed at a total expenditure of $14 000. The sum total on street improvements alone amounts to $214 344.

Where but a year ago were the unsightly remnants of the forest strewn with huge rugged rocks on every pathway, there are now handsome broad drives and well paved sidewalks. There is [illegible] on the great Pacific slope that can boast of finer driveways.

Our system of water works operates admirably, but the rapid growth of the city has been such as to require the construction of new works on a much larger scale and extension of the mains over an area of two miles square. These are now under way and the total cost of our entire system will be $106 000. Revenue from the water works for the past year ending October 1 amounts to $15 000.

Our city is now equipped with three systems of street railways, the horse-car, cable line and steam motor. Many miles have been completed and many more are now being built. The cost of the horse car line will be $50,000, that of the motor line $50,000, and that of the cable line $100,000. These lines extend to the city limits and in some instances beyond for a considerable distance. The horse car line and motor line are well equipped, and are now operating. A new line has been projected, and will be built, beginning at Post street on Sprague, and extending eastward to Ross park, a distance of two miles.

The total valuation of real and personal property during the past year, according to the city assessor's report, is $3 692 230. Total number of business firms in the city 487.

A PROSPECTOR'S LONELY DEATH

His Skeleton Denuded of Flesh by Mountain Lions

HELENA, Mont, Nov [illegible]—Particulars of the mysterious [illegible] a prospector named [illegible] have just reached here. [illegible] near Deer Lodge county, a few [illegible] about twenty one days [illegible] till the two [illegible] to their terror of [illegible] harrowing [illegible] led to [illegible] some wood went to his [illegible]

[illegible] days ago passed Robinson's cabin in which he saw a cow. He went in and found that she had pulled the straw [illegible] of the bed to [illegible] and had eaten most of the straw. He drove the cow out and fastened the door. He knew nothing of the skeleton at that time, but is satisfied that the straw tick was partially eaten.

On entering the cabin [illegible] they were horrified to find the skeleton of a man lying upon the floor. [illegible] were [illegible] a short distance off. Within the room were signs which completed the discovery of [illegible] leaving to [illegible] that mountain lions had devoured the corpse [illegible] flesh.

WHERE IS PRETTY MRS HANLEY?

She Eloped to Get Married and Now Has Left Her Husband

HELENA, Mont, Nov 27—Pretty Mrs Hanley, 18-year-old wife of John Hanley, who six weeks ago was Miss Emma Ralph and who created a sensation by eloping with him and marrying at Deer Lodge, has caused another sensation by disappearing and forgetting to leave her address. Rumor are afloat that she has been found dead in a prospect hole, also that she had run away with another man.

Sunday morning, while Hanley was in bed sleeping, he was awakened by the rustling of dress goods and hurried closing of trunks and bureau drawers. He noticed that his wife was attired ready to go out and asked her what she was doing. She replied that she was going to spend the day with friends in Burlington. He went to work after breakfast and has never seen her since. The truth dawned upon him at once and when he returned home he was grief stricken and has since declined to go to work but remains in his house.

The mother says she is pretty certain that the girl was not in Burlington and expresses a belief that she went a long way off and went alone, leaving the inference that she was tired of her husband.

FROM OUT THE JAWS OF DEATH

Miraculous Escape of the Second Officer of the Assel—Fire at Sea

ASTORIA, Nov 27—Capt Gilmore of the British bark Assel, which arrived in port late last night, relates the following miraculous escape of the second mate from drowning while crossing the bar.

It was 5:30 o'clock and dark. A H Bath, the second mate, was on the forecastle making preparations for getting the anchor over the bow on arrival in the harbor. He was using a handspike to pay the anchor on to the rail when the vessel gave a lurch suddenly, throwing the weight of the anchor on the handspike in his hands and throwing him overboard.

The crew immediately shouted "Man overboard!"

Capt Gilmore heard the shout on the poop deck. With great presence of mind he seized a coil of slack rope, threw it over the ship's side and held fast. He soon felt a pull. He shouted and heard the voice of Bath:

"I'm here, sir; send down a bow line."

The ship was making six knots with a tug towing and there was no chance or time to stop. Capt Gilmore told Bath to hold on and the crew would haul him up, which they did from the very jaws of death.

FIRE AT SEA

Last Wednesday another exciting event occurred on board the vessel while still at sea. At 3 P M the cabin boy was getting the lamps ready in the lamp room and capsized a lighted lamp on the floor, which for years has been saturated with oil. The captain had just gone off watch and was asleep when he was aroused by the cry of fire. He was met by flames issuing from the side of the cabin. He ordered the companion way closed and succeeded in smothering the flames, but not before they had thoroughly blackened and charred the lamp room.

The vessel is safe in port now and the captain, second officer and all hands will celebrate Thanksgiving with full hearts.

C P DIXON PARDONED

His Devoted Wife Secures His Release From the Penitentiary

SALEM, Or, Nov 27—C P Dixon, Canadian Pacific embezzler, will walk out of the penitentiary to-morrow morning a free man, his sentence having been commuted by Gov Pennoyer yesterday. It will be remembered by the reading public that in the fall of 1886 Dixon, who was the Portland agent of the Canadian Pacific railroad, embezzled $3000 of that company's funds and skipped to Canada. He was gone eight months and his wife, despairing of his ever returning, secured a divorce and returned to her former home in Washington, D C. Finally Dixon came back and gave himself into the hands of the law. His trial, conviction and sentence to three years' imprisonment followed. He was received at the penitentiary July 9, 1887, and has there forced [illegible] nearly half his term.

After his conviction his divorced wife returned to Oregon, and has lived in Salem since he has been in prison, devoting her whole energies to securing his pardon. Judge Stearns and Prosecuting Attorney McGinn of the Fourth judicial district recommended his pardon to the governor. S A Johnson of Washington, D C, formerly chief of the mail department of the United States treasury department, wrote that Dixon had been employed under him in the department from 1878 to 1883 and had been considered a very worthy and capable young man. Senator W M Teller, ex-secretary of the interior, wrote urging Dixon's pardon, as did also the doorkeeper of the U S senate and other prominent officials and ex-officials at Washington.

Dixon's mother, who lives at Quebec, Canada, wrote a very pathetic letter stating that she was 70 years of age and that the disgrace and punishment of her loved son, who had supported her for years, was more than she could bear. A number of prominent men in Salem and Portland also urged the governor to commute his sentence, and a petition to that effect was headed by Archbishop Gross and signed by Mayor DeLashmutt, Chief of Police Parrish, Senator Joseph Simon and many other leading men of Portland. The name of nearly every railroad agent in Portland was also noticed on the petition.

The only protest against commutation was from the American Surety Company of New York, who made good the amount embezzled by Dixon, being on his bond to the company.

The news of his pardon was first broken to Dixon by THE OREGONIAN correspondent this afternoon at the prison. He was overcome with joy and gave all credit for his release to his divorced wife, who he said had stood at the prison gates for nearly eighteen months, ready to lead him forth from his living grave and receive him with open arms. He said that to-morrow he and his divorced wife would take the morning train for Portland, where they would be reunited in marriage. They will then go to Washington territory to remain a short time. He has not determined upon future plans, but will probably go to Denver, Col, to make his home.

THE DANGEROUS BANISTER.

A Salem Lad Slides Down One in the State Capitol

SALEM, Nov 27—The 10-year-old son of John Athey received a serious and perhaps fatal fall in the capitol building this morning. His father, who is a carpenter, was working in the basement of the building and sent the boy with some tools for another carpenter who was working on the top floor. The boy carried the tools up and in returning probably tried to slide down the banisters and fell to the floor, about twenty-four feet below, as he was found there in an insensible condition a few minutes later. He was carried to his home and at 7 o'clock this evening was still insensible. Physicians state that he may die from the effect of injuries about the head received in the fall.

MURDER IN THE SECOND DEGREE

The Verdict Against Henry Miller, the Boy Murderer of Benton County

CORVALLIS, Or, Nov 27—Henry Miller, the boy murderer, was found guilty of murder in the second degree for the murder of Elmer Wright on Yaquina bay last May. The jury were out five hours.

Both boys were about 14 years old. They were returning home from Sunday school at the time of the murder. The day before they had quarreled and young Miller brought the matter up again by asking: "Do you want to fight that out now?"

Young Wright replied: "You are too big a coward to fight."

At this Miller drew out a long case knife which he had ground down to a sharp edge on either side and to a keen point and stabbed Wright several times. He wounded lad lived but a short time.

HAVELIN KNOCKED OUT

Warren Whips Him in Twenty-five Rounds—A Brutal Contest

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov [illegible]—The feather weight Jack Havelin and Tommy Warren of Los Angeles met at the rooms of the California athletic club to-night and fought for a purse of $1000. According to stipulations the men entered the ring at 118 pounds. Both appeared in excellent condition. Probably a thousand persons were present. Hiram Cook of this city was referee.

Up to the last few rounds there was nothing specially unusual in the fight, but the last few rounds were the most brutal ever seen in this city. It was evident to every one that Havelin had not a possible chance of winning. In the twenty first round he was knocked down twice, and after that he was hardly able to strike a blow. Warren was apparently almost as fresh as in the beginning of the fight and a swollen lip was about the only disfigurement to be seen upon him. Havelin, on the contrary, presented a most pitiable appearance. His lips and eyes were terribly swollen, and blood covered every part of his face and part of his body.

In the twenty second round he was knocked down once and in the next round five times.

In the twenty fourth round he was hardly able to stand and Warren sent him to the floor six times.

He came forward gamely for the twenty fifth round and was hardly upon his feet before Warren sent him under the ropes. To the surprise of everyone he again stood up only to be knocked under the ropes a second time. This time also he made an effort to rise but was only upon his knees when time was called and the referee awarded the prize to Warren.

CALIFORNIA DRIED FRUITS.

The Demand at the East is Greater Than the Supply

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 27—John F Cutting, general manager of the California Dried Fruit Association, has just returned from an Eastern tour and reports that he found the market for California fruits, both fresh and dried, rapidly extending and dealers eager to handle them. The particulars will interest Oregonians to some extent at least. As a result of his efforts agencies have been established at Chicago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Washington, Atlanta, New Orleans, Memphis, St Louis, St Paul and forty-six other principal cities of the country.

Mr Cutting said encouragement of the consumption of California fruits should be practiced to the utmost. But a few dried peaches remain unsold, bringing at Chicago prices from 9 to 10 cents. The apricot crop is also well cleaned up and good prices prevailed. The figures at Philadelphia, which is one of the best markets for California fruit, are 16 to 17½ cents for a good bleached article. Prunes are moving off regularly at from 6 to 10½ cents a pound. Eastern dealers prefer this fruit in stout cotton sacks instead of boxes as better sales can be effected. Raisins are very scarce in the home market, and the crop is pretty well closed out. The consumption of this article at Chicago is 40 per cent greater than last year and many dealers have not secured enough in stock to last until next season. The quality of the California raisin is also commended as superior to foreign brands.

TWO SWINDLERS ARRESTED.

They Were Trying to Work the Counterfeit Game on the Wrong Man.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 27—The police to-day captured Jacob Rosenheim, alias Sleepy Jake, and another man named Rosendo Sanchese and locked them up on a charge of swindling. The two men had been endeavoring for some time to get Irvin Baruch, a tailor, to invest some money in what they represented to be the manufacture of spurious $5 gold pieces. Baruch was shown the process but the men in reality gave him several good coins and insisted that he try to pass them. Baruch gave information to the police, which resulted in the capture of the men to-day while they were in the act of showing Baruch how the coins were to be made.

The "Enterprise" Blackmailing Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 27—To-day Police Judge Hornblower gave his decision in the case of Adolfo Garillo and W W Knott, members of the Enterprise company of alleged blackmailers, charged with having criminally libeled Federico Picazo. In overruling the demurrer of defendants and holding them to answer before the superior court, the judge decided there was nothing in the laws of this state that prevented a citizen of a foreign country from seeking redress in the courts of California for attacks on his good name. The judge characterized the offense as a defamatory and malicious publication, tending to impeach the honesty, integrity, virtue or reputation of the prosecuting witness, and fixed bail on this charge at $1000. As W W Knott had a cash bail deposit of $3000 on other charges he was not required to furnish further security for his appearance. Garillo being unable to give bonds went back to jail.

The Bay District Races

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 27—At the Bay District track to-day the weather was fine but the track heavy from recent rains.

One mile, all ages—Jack Grady won, Colonel second, Kildare third; time 1:50¾.

Five-eighths mile handicap for two year olds—Caliente won, Lady Helen second, Natcho B third; time 1:07¼.

Mile and an eighth handicap, all ages—Mollie McCarthy's Last won, Not Idle second, Grisette third; time 2:03.

Eleven sixteenths of a mile handicap, all ages—Edelweiss won, Al Farrow second, Estrella third; time 1:11.

A Timber Thief Sentenced.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 27—Charles E Beach, who was convicted last October of having suborned certain persons to make false entries on government timber lands in Humboldt county, was to-day sentenced by Judge Hoffman to be imprisoned at hard labor for three years and pay a fine of $2000.

The Vote of California

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 27—The Examiner will say to-morrow: The latest amended aggregates of election returns as received from the official canvassers of the state are as follows: Total vote, 250 107; Harrison, 124 795; Cleveland, 117 768; Fisk 6023; Curtis 1521.

Justifiable Homicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 27—The corner's jury has returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the case of Frank Wessell, proprietor of a lodging house here, who died Sunday from the effects of shooting by Joseph McDermott.

Pullman reservations made for all points East via the Northern Pacific Railroad Office, No. 2 Washington street.

THE PRESIDENT-ELECT.

He Has a Conference With Allison and Spooner.

CABINET GUESSES AGAIN IN ORDER

A Belief That Cabinet Will Be Represented—Gen Harrison Expresses Surprise at the Alarm of the South

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov 27—The president-elect had a number of distinguished visitors to-day, including Senator John C Spooner of Wisconsin, Congressman John R Thomas of Illinois, Congressman P D Owen of Indiana, Gen Reuben Williams of Warsaw, Ind, and Senator Allison. The visit of Senator Allison and Spooner bore the appearance of having been prearranged, as Senator Spooner came from Washington, while Senator Allison came from Iowa en route to Washington. Their appearance in the city put the newspaper correspondents in a flutter and both distinguished gentlemen were constantly besieged for information, but the correspondents found them rather tiresome and exceedingly uncommunicative, touching Gen Harrison on cabinet probabilities.

ALLISON'S CHANCES ARE GOOD

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov 27—There are several men of national prominence in the city to-day and just what they are here for is a question that is greatly worrying those who are anxiously watching presidential headquarters. Three of these have been talked about as probable cabinet ministers. They are Senator Allison of Iowa, Senator Spooner of Wisconsin and John R Thomas of Illinois. Those who think they know something about the matter say that one of the three will certainly be in the cabinet and that one will probably be the man from Iowa. It is the belief of prominent republicans who know Senator Allison very well that he will be secretary of state. [illegible] others think that he will be secretary of the treasury if John C New is not chosen for that position.

Senators Allison and Spooner offer the usual explanation for their presence in the city. They are en route to Washington and stopped to make a friendly call upon the president-elect. The call extended from 10 A M to 5 P M.

Allison was asked point blank: "Will you be secretary of the treasury?"

He replied laughing: "That is a military question."

"Will you have any cabinet position?"

"Well, Gen Harrison has not said it."

Spooner positively refuses any information.

CALIFORNIA TO BE REPRESENTED

Your correspondent asked an intimate friend of the president-elect whether the Pacific coast would be represented in his cabinet. He replied: "Yes, either Estee or Swift will be in it. The Pacific coast fellows expect to get the interior portfolio, but they will be disappointed. Harrison will not dare to give the interior to any man who has the most remote connection with the Western railways and their interests. California will get either the navy department or the attorney generalship."

He was asked who would be secretary of state. He replied: "I believe that Edmunds will be tendered the position."

HARRISON AND THE SOUTH

The President-Elect Surprised That the People Should Have Fears

GREENVILLE, S C, Nov 27—The Greenville Daily News prints a letter recently received by its editor from Gen Harrison, published by his permission. It was written in reply to a letter urging that Southern commercial interests be relieved from the obstruction caused by doubts and fears regarding the Southern policy of the coming administration if Gen Harrison would make some general assurances of his purpose to follow a conservative course towards the South, and it is as follows:

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov 14.

To A B Williams, Esq, Greenville, S C—My Dear Sir: Your letter of November 10 has been received. I am not ready to make any public utterances on any public question. Every day I am solicited by special correspondents of the press to speak upon this subject, or that, but I have invariably declined, and to your appeal for some expression upon a question that interests you I must for the present make the same answer. I understand that you yourself have been satisfied with the expressions made by me in my public utterances to visiting delegations during the campaign. When the surprise and disappointment which some of your people have felt over the result has passed away, and they give calm thought to the situation, I think they will be as much surprised as I am that they should, in thought or speech, impute to me unfriendliness to the South. The policies in the legislation advised by the republican party I believe wholesome for the whole country, and if those who, in their hearts, believe with us upon these questions would act with us, other questions that give you local concern would settle themselves. Very truly yours,

BENJ HARRISON

THE TENNESSEE CONTEST

Even the Board of Canvassers Fails to Agree

NASHVILLE, Tenn, Nov 27—The state board of canvassers, to whom all the returns are certified, failed to agree upon the contest for the certificate to congress from the Third district. Gov Taylor indorsed the claim to the seat of H C Evans, Republican. Secretary of State Allison, the other member of the board, declares that Bates, democrat, is legally elected. Further consideration of the matter was deferred until next Monday.

OFFICIAL VOTE OF INDIANA.

Gen Harrison's Plurality Narrows Down to 2348

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov 27—The official canvass of the presidential vote of Indiana was completed to-night. The total vote is 536 919, divided as follows: Republicans 263 361, democrats 261 013, prohibition 9881, labor [illegible], republican plurality 2348. Gen Hovey's plurality 2200.

The Republican "Spellbinders."

NEW YORK, Nov 27—The republican spellbinders met in the Fifth Avenue hotel this afternoon and completed the organization of the republican orators in the late campaign. It was determined to call the organization the Republican Spellbinders Association. Hon Chauncey M Depew was chosen president, and among the vice presidents were Col Elliott Shepard, Mrs J Ellen Foster, Charles Foster, Hon W McKinley of Ohio, and Gov Wm P Dillingham. Among the members of the executive committee are Gen Anson G McCook and H K Thurber.

Congressmen Given their Credentials

NEW ORLEANS, La, Nov 28—The Picayune's Baton Rouge special says: The board of canvassers this afternoon completed the votes cast at the recent election for congressmen. Credentials were issued to all those elected, including H Dudley Coleman, republican, in the second district.

Official Vote of Illinois.

CHICAGO, Nov 27—The official canvass of the Illinois election returns was finished to-day. Fifer, the republican candidate for governor, has 12 532 plurality over Palmer, democrat. Harrison's plurality over Cleveland is 22 881.

The Haytian Trouble

WASHINGTON, Nov 27—The secretary of state has received a report from the United States minister to Hayti in regard to the American steamer Haytian Republic. [illegible] that Secretary Rives's dispatch [illegible] would probably be laid before [illegible] deemed best not to allow its [illegible] before that is done.

Carney Refuses to Fight in America

NEW YORK, Nov 27—The proposed fight between Jem Carney of England and Jack McAuliffe for the light weight championship of the world appears to be falling. Carney cabled to-day that he declined to fight McAuliffe in America, as he feared he would not get fair play, but is willing to fight McAuliffe abroad.

A New Line of Steamers

[illegible], Nov 27—An enterprise is on foot [illegible] involving the expenditure of $4,000,000 for the purpose of putting a new line of steamers on the lake, to be known as the Anchor Line. Low rates will be established and [illegible] will be made on competing lines between Duluth and Lake Erie.

Rumor of a Duel

BIRMINGHAM, Ala, Nov 27—A prominent attorney of this city is authority for the statement that a duel between Thomas Cobb Jackson and Morris Brandon of Atlanta [illegible] was to have been fought at sunrise this morning in Louisiana. Nothing has been heard as to the result of the meeting.

Will Lock Out Union Men.

NEW YORK, Nov 27—The boss ale and porter brewers of New York and New Jersey, at a meeting this afternoon, decided to lock out all their union men and employ non union men to-morrow. This is because of the continued boycott on Stevenson's brewery in this city.

Denny and the Coreans

WASHINGTON, Nov 27—Dr H N Allen, American secretary of the Corean legation, says the movements of Judge Denny, late American adviser to the king of Corea, in no way affect the Corean minister or his legation, who are now in San Francisco en route home.

The Formal Transfer Made

NEW YORK, Nov 27—It is understood here that the formal transfer of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad's telegraph business has been made to the Western Union, with the exclusion of such rights as are necessary to the working of the road.

A PETITION TO PRESIDENT CLEVELAND

Dakota Asks for the Immediate Admission of the States Formed From Territories

GRAND FORKS, Dak, Nov 21—A petition is being circulated in every county in North Dakota addressed to President Cleveland and the senate and house. It asks immediate admission of all the states formed from territories now ready for admission into the Union and the speedy formation of state constitutions for the remainder, including North Dakota, Washington and New Mexico. It therefore prays that the fiftieth congress forthwith admit South Dakota and Montana and provide for constitutional conventions in North Dakota and other territories in harmony with the ordinance of 1787 and a long line of precedents.

ELECTRICITY IS THE LIFE

When properly applied and thoroughly diffused in the human system. But this, when artificially applied, must be done under the direction and able guidance of those who are by practice experienced in its use and applicability to the various diseases incident to nature, and with a careful provision as to the constitutional condition of the patient. Hence the wonderful success Dr Darrin has over disease with the use of electricity, as the following almost miraculous cures will show. If they were not people well known in his community, it would be hard to believe such cures possible.

Mr Wm. M Calwell, of the Columbia River Manufacturing Co, Cured of Sciatic Rheumatism

Ed OREGONIAN—Dear Sir: Having heard of Dr Darrin through my brother George [illegible] Calwell, who was cured of a numbness of the arm of many years standing, I was induced to apply to him for relief from sciatic rheumatism, which was then extremely painful, and also a diseased liver, from which I suffered very much. I was cured of rheumatism in two weeks' time, so that I have felt no recurrence of the disease, and am rapidly recovering from the liver difficulty, so that my health is better than for several years. WM M CALWELL

Skamokawa, W T

Happy Am I

Ed OREGONIAN—Dear Sir: Seeing so many statements in your paper of cures by Dr Darrin I deem it right to say what he has done for me. One month ago I began taking treatment and now I am enjoying the best of health. He cured me of catarrh of fourteen years' standing and deafness of three years' standing, so I can hear a watch tick all by his electric magnetic treatment. I reside at [illegible] I street, Portland. Yours truly,

MISS MAMIE McKEAN

Mrs Chase's Wonderful Recovery

Mr Editor: Say for me that Dr Darrin has relieved me of dyspepsia, sick headache, catarrh of the bladder and ulceration, which was almost death to endure. The day I went to him I had to be helped to the wagon. I am now cured of most of my complaints and am gaining in flesh and strength. I was reduced to a mere skeleton, weighing only eighty pounds. Now I weigh nearly 100. Refer to me at Sandy, Or.

MRS ELIZABETH S CHASE

Office Hours and Place of Business

Drs Darrin can be consulted free at 235 Fifth street, corner of Main, Portland, from 10 to 4 daily; evenings, 7 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 12. All curable chronic diseases (except smallpox), loss of manhood, blood taints, syphilis, gleet, gonorrhoea, stricture, spermatorrhoea, seminal weakness or loss of desire of sexual power in man or woman, catarrh and deafness are confidentially and successfully treated. Cures of private diseases guaranteed and never published in the papers. Circulars sent free. Most cases can receive home treatment after a visit to the doctors' office.

THE SECOND PAPAL RESCRIPT.

Irish Members of Parliament in Prison Will be Allowed to Vote—Lord Lonsdale's Journey Toward the North Pole

LONDON, Nov 27—At the sitting of the Parnell commission to-day Sergeant [illegible] testified concerning outrages and the increase of police had been necessary at Castle Island since 1880, and the police force had been doubled. Prior to the founding of the League in 1880 the district had been quiet. Afterward, however, outrages had been general. Witness added that he kept a book in which he recorded the outrages. Counsel for Parnell demanded that he produce the book, saying it was not fair for the Times counsel alone to have access to it.

The Times counsel said the book contained letters from officials respecting certain persons and it was desirable that they should not be published. Justice Hannen said it was highly desirable that the book, including the column headed "motives," be produced. Special entries relating to certain persons ought not perhaps to be disclosed. He suggested that Sir Henry James and Sir Charles Russell inspect the book, then if they did not agree the judges themselves would inspect it. Other policemen then testified at length concerning the outrages.

Inspector Davis said he had discovered that there was an inner circle of the league which organized the Fenians to execute the league's behests. When cross-examined, he declined to give the name of his informant. Reid pressed him for the name and witness finally said the man who gave him the information was not in the pay of the police. He was a member of the league and had taken part in the work of the inner circle.

Sir Charles Russell applied to the Times counsel to include in their particulars a letter purporting to be signed by O'Kelley.

Attorney General Webster opposed the inclusion of the letter on the ground that it was an attempt on the part of Messrs. Lewis to obtain information in the Times case to which they were not entitled. Justice Hannen reserved his decision.

PARNELL'S SUIT FOR LIBEL.

EDINBURGH, Nov 27—In the case of Parnell against the London Times for libel, Judge Kinnear has fixed upon December [illegible] for hearing proof on the question of rearrestment. The counsel for Parnell have served an order upon defendants requiring them to produce contracts of copartner ownership of the Times and also its business books and accounts.

THE SECOND PAPAL RESCRIPT.

How an Indiscreet Servant Divulged a Great Secret.

DUBLIN, Nov 27—It is reported that a second papal rescript has been sent to the Irish bishops, that the receipt of the document was not to be made known, but that the bishops should proceed to enforce the commands contained in the first rescript, without alluding to the existence of the second one. But this plan was spoiled through the indiscretion of a servant of the bishop of Limerick, who divulged a part of the contents of the rescript. It is probable that the publication of a part of the document will force the pope to reaffirm publicly his wishes regarding Ireland.

IN PARLIAMENT.

Irish Members in Prison Will Be Allowed to Vote on the Irish Estimates

LONDON, Nov 27—In the house of commons this evening Balfour, chief secretary for Ireland, intimated that Mr Harrington, Mr Finucane and other members of the Irish party under arrest would be permitted to attend the sittings of parliament during the time the Irish estimates were under discussion.

The debate on the Irish land purchase bill was resumed and some amendments were adopted.

The government accepted the clause proposed by Mr Healy exempting the purchaser from all liabilities for rent arrears from the date the purchase [illegible].

The oaths bill passed the house of lords without division.

LORD LONSDALE'S JOURNEY.

He Now Has Hopes of Reaching the North Pole

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Nov 27—Word has reached here from Lord Lonsdale, who is traveling with two Esquimau guides in the Arctic region. He is pushing northward as rapidly as possible. He walks all day and displays such remarkable endurance that the natives refer to him as "the man who walks fast." He spoke confidently of being able in his simple mode of traveling of reaching the North pole if his attendants would stick to him. He said that at least he would pierce farther north than any white man had ever gone. He has secured numbers of specimens of the birds and beasts of the isolated country. He is out in the interest of the Scottish Naturalist Society of Edinburgh, to obtain specimens of birds and beasts, and to learn more minutely the habits of the animals and feathered kind inhabiting the northern regions. Besides, he is inquiring into the habits and customs of the Indians.

THE HACKMEN'S LICENSES.

A Test Case Argued Before Judge Stearns Yesterday Afternoon

Chung Foo's Assailants Sentenced to the Penitentiary for One Year Each—General Court News

Judge Stearns yesterday issued a writ of habeas corpus to Chief of Police Parrish in the case of John Roe a hackman employed by Mcgoon Bros who was arrested on the 19th by Policeman Tichenor for refusing to pay the license of $1 per month imposed on hackmen. It was made returnable in the afternoon when the matter was argued by City Attorney Adams for the corporation and H Y Thompson and Thomas A Stephens for the petitioners. This move was made to test the validity of the city ordinance providing for the license

City Attorney Adams maintained that the license was not a tax that it was made simply to regulate the hackmen and that the city had a right to tax hacks and hackmen

Messrs Thompson and Stephens held that the city council in imposing the license exceeded its authority in two ways. First by double taxation, first by taxing the hacks and then the hackman second it had no right to single one class of people hackmen or hod carriers and collect from them revenue to operate the city government that such tax should be collected from all classes. Mr Thompson said it would be as reasonable to attempt to regulate the liquor business by licensing the barkeepers as to try to regulate the hack business by licensing the hackmen

The court took the matter under advisement

LEE SHUNG AND SING LUNG SENTENCED

Lee Shung and Sing Lung convicted recently for murderously assaulting Chung Foo were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Stearns yesterday. When asked if they had anything to say why sentence should not be imposed Lee Shung replied through an interpreter Lee Toy and Sing Lung had nothing to do with the assault

Charlie Garwood indicted for robbery and J A Peterson alias A J Ritchie indicted for having forged checks in his possession pleaded not guilty. Garwood's trial was set for December 21 and Peterson's for the 22d

INTERESTING POINT OF LAW

A new question and one of considerable interest came up in the case of Bowerman vs McMahon now before the United States court.

Plaintiff brought suit to recover damages on account of defendant having obstructed the McKenzie river by falling trees into it thus rendering it impossible to raft logs down. Plaintiff alleged that he sold these logs and by not being able to deliver them he was damaged $2500 or prevented from making gains to that amount

Defendant moved to strike that allegation out of the complaint

The court denied the motion saying that while it is true that in a motion for damages for a breach of contract the plaintiffs cannot recover for loss of profits on a contract with the third person which he was prevented from performing because the loss on the collateral contract was not in the contemplation of the parties to the original contract at the time of making it but the rule is different in an action for tort or wrong. The injured party in such cases has not entered into any arrangement with the wrong doer and the latter must be held responsible for all the consequences flowing directly from his act which may include the loss of profits on a collateral contract

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

Judge Stearns yesterday granted George H Ennis a divorce from Maria D Ennis

In the case of Hattie Wilson vs Frank Wilson a decree of divorce was denied the court holding that the defendant was not guilty of infidelity as charged

The suit of Charles F Tigard vs Annie M Tigard was also dismissed because the charge of desertion was not sustained the couple having separated by mutual consent

MRS CASEY'S WILL

The will of the late Mrs William Casey was filed for probate in the county court yesterday. The estate is worth $6840. Decedent bequeaths to her cousins Mary Ryan of New York and Daniel Ryan of Jersey City $500 each to be divided from the proceeds of the sale of land in East Portland, to Very Rev J F Fierens $800 Archbishop Gross $100 Fathers Edward J O'Dea and P F Gibney $50 each. To her husband she bequeaths $500 and fractional blocks 10 and 26 in Sullivan's addition to East Portland. The rest of her estate is to be equally divided among her sisters Mary Hays of Binghamton N Y Ellen Ervin of Innesville Mass and the children of her deceased sister Margaret Ryan

WHO OWNS THE FEATHER BED?

Mrs J Henry and Mrs Techworth yesterday had an examination in Justice Tuttle's court on a charge of larceny of a feather bed valued at $15. Mrs M Rieman the complainant alleges that she sold some personal property to the defendants who were then given possession of the house previously occupied by her. This property consisted of household furniture and other minor articles. She further states that she left a feather bed that she had not sold in the rooms at the time she vacated. When she returned for this the defendant would not allow her to take it claiming that it had been bought by them with the other furniture. The court took the case under advisement until this afternoon

A SURPRISE FOR GEORGIE

A Chinaman going by the somewhat anglicised name of Georgie yesterday came into Justice Tuttle's court for the purpose of instituting civil proceedings against W O Allen for the recovery of $8. Much to his surprise however he was confronted with a warrant for his own arrest. The warrant which was issued on the 15th on information signed by W O Allen charges him with defacing a building not his own by tearing down a partition. Before being able to leave the court room Georgie had to send some one after enough money to bail him out and this morning at 10 o'clock he will have examination

HEATHEN GAMBLERS IN COURT

Wong Lock charged with assault and battery on Ah You had an examination in Justice Tuttle's court yesterday afternoon. The difficulty between the belligerents arose over a game in a gambling house on the corner of Second and Taylor streets. Ah You claims that he was struck with an iron bar by the defendant while being held by the other. Wong Lock was represented by counsel who will submit argument in the case at 1 o'clock this afternoon

Wong Lock had warrants sworn out for the arrest of Ah You and Ah Bin on the same charge and in regard to the case was set for 1 o'clock this afternoon

HANLON HELD TO ANSWER

James Hanlon had an examination in Justice Tuttle's court yesterday on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on Fred Tucker. The difficulty arose from some family troubles which Hanlon endeavored to settle with a knife. He made a lunge at Tucker but inflicted no further injury than somewhat disfiguring his coat. A large hole was cut in the coat but the knife penetrated no further. Hanlon was held to appear before the grand jury in $100 bail

POLICE COURT PROCEEDINGS

The police court session yesterday afternoon was the shortest for some time. Only four offenders were brought before the bar of justice and these owed their presence in court to an inordinate appetite for strong drink. Tom Turney John Brady Frank Bennett and C I Jackson charged with drunkenness received a fine of $5 each. The session did not last over three minutes

MINOR NOTES

The exceptions and petitions in the Holladay case were argued before Judge Catlin and submitted yesterday

A marriage license was granted yesterday for John W Matthews and Jennie Wilson

THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE CASE

The Supreme Court's Decision is to the Effect That the Southern Methodist Church May Still Hold On

A few days ago THE OREGONIAN contained a brief telegram to the effect that the state supreme court had reversed the decision of the circuit court in the Agricultural college case appealed from Benton county. We are indebted to the Benton Leader for the following syllabus

One or more of the members of an unincorporated association may sue for the benefit of the whole to enforce a right in favor of the association which is cognizable in equity where the members comprising it are so numerous that it would be impracticable to bring them all before the court

The right to believe and teach religious doctrines includes the right to organize churches establish seminaries of learning and acquire property for that purpose and to claim the protection of the civil law in the enjoyment of such right

Mere voluntary associations are incapable of taking and holding real property in their society name but it may be held for their use and benefit through the intervention of trustee who may be a natural or artificial person

When therefore an unincorporated religious association procured through other parties the formation of a corporation for literary purposes the charter of which contained a provision that its object was to acquire and hold property in trust for such association and that its trustees should be appointed by the representatives of the latter

Held that property subsequently conveyed to it unless the deed of conveyance limited it to a different use must be deemed to have been taken in trust for the association, and where the legislature in providing for a college the leading object of which should be to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts in compliance with the provisions of the act of congress granting public lands to the several states and territories which might provide colleges, for that purpose—passed July 2 1862—designated and adopted the said corporation as the agricultural college of the state in which all students should be instructed in accordance with the requirements of the said act of congress and the corporation accepted such designation and adoption, in pursuance of a requirement of the legislature

Held that the relations of the corporation to the religious association were not thereby changed that the state in consequence of such act and acceptance was not authorized to alter the charter of the corporation or interfere with the right of the association to manage property conveyed to the former, as provided in the charter, nor that the designation of the corporation as such college created a new entity or changed its character as trustee of the property held by it for the benefit of the association

Held further that a deed to land subsequently executed to the corporation which contained a provision to the effect that the premises be used by it for the purposes of the agricultural college of the state and that when they should cease to be so used they should vest and become the property of the persons who had or should contribute the purchase money did not impress a trust upon the premises in favor of such college, that the latter as distinct from the corporation was only ideal that said provision in the deed referred to created a conditional limitation in favor of the persons who contributed the purchase money and that the trustees of the corporation could not rightfully convey the land contrary to the will of the association

SELLWOOD'S COUNCIL IN SESSION

Another Smallpox Lie Nailed—Seven New Street Lamps—Grading Notes

A regular meeting of the Sellwood city council was held Monday Nov 26 1888 and the meeting called to order by President of the council R Bean

The following communication from Dr W T McMurtey, was received and read

I made a visit at the request of his honor the mayor R Bean it being reported that Mr Turk's boy was sick with the smallpox, which on investigation by the mayor and myself was found to be untrue. There is no case of smallpox existing at Mr Turke's and I am happy to say that from personal knowledge there is no case at this time within the city of Sellwood

W T McMURTEY M D

On motion the following bills were approved and ordered paid Dr McMurtey investigating reported smallpox case $; Dorris & Mcirath, erecting street lamps $21

An ordinance establishing the grade of Willamette avenue passed

Petition from J W Campbell asking the council to erect a street lamp in front of his place of business, referred to committee on streets and public property

Adjourned for two weeks

IMPROVEMENT NOTES

W L Ball & Co have been awarded the contract to improve and grade two lots for the city and move the city jail thereon

A much needed improvement in lighting the city is affected in erecting street lamps at the following places. In front of Mr Conner's place First street and Umatilla avenue one in front of Mr Campbell's store on Umatilla avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets, one in front of Dr Ray's drug store on Umatilla avenue, at St Charles hotel on Ninth street and Umatilla avenue at Brockwell's store on corner of Ninth and Nehalem streets and corner of Fifth street and Central avenue at Merchant's hotel

Work on Spokane avenue is progressing rapidly

The enterprising captain of the Sellwood contemplates placing a street lamp at the boat landing—a much desired improvement

POWDER FOR PORTLAND

Arrival of the Elder and the Oregon—Cumberland Coal—Steamer Dock Lively

The Geo W Elder tied up at the powder grounds yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. The powder shipments she brought aggregated 67 tons consisting of giant glycerine and sporting brands, all consigned to Portland jobbers

The barge Governor Grover was put to work transferring it to the powder house up the river. The Elder also brought ... tons of Cumberland coal for the Oregon Improvement Company which will be discharged at their east side bunkers to-day and a full complement of miscellaneous freight including 150 tons for one drug firm in this city

The Oregon made fast at the steamer dock with 800 tons of goods for the Inland Empire and 500 to 600 tons of general merchandise largely groceries for this city

The steamer dock is now a busy place. Fully 130 men are at work. The transfer of the powder the unloading and loading again of the Oregon which is to ... will give them plenty to do

GONE TO HIS REWARD

Short Sketch of the Late Samuel M Hamilton Who Recently Died at the Cascades

A correspondent writing from the Cascades under date of November 25 says

Samuel Milton Hamilton died at his home at Lower Cascades W T, November 19 aged 70 years and 7 months. During his long and painful illness he was tenderly cared for and nursed by his loving wife and children. He emigrated from Illinois to Oregon with his family in 1850 undergoing many hardships and privations on the long and tedious journey across the plains. He settled upon and took a donation claim on what is known as Hamilton's island where he made a comfortable home and raised his family now all grown up

He took an active part in defense of the Portage against hostile Indians at the time of the memorable massacre March 1856. There are but few living now who were here and took part in that memorable occasion. In retaliation of the active part taken by Mr Hamilton against them the Indians burned and destroyed all his houses, fences etc crippling him financially for many years after. He leaves his family well provided for

NOT AS SWIFT AS ATALANTA

Foot Race Yesterday Between Harry Langdon and Prof Milton—The Former Wins

The foot race yesterday at Clinton & McCoy's grounds it seems was an outgrowth of a private race between the same contestants Harry Langdon and Prof Milton, in which the former was victorious last Sunday

The race yesterday was made for $50 a side at seventy five yards. A track was improvised a little north of the center of the ball ground inclosure the finish being at the west end. The start was made by mutual consent about half an hour being consumed in scoring after which they both got well away together and made a very pretty even race until about half way over the course when Milton slipped and fell. Langdon finished easily and no time was taken

Milton sustained quite a severe strain of the leg which is very painful, but not likely to prove serious. Where he comes from no one seems to know. Langdon has resided for some time in East Portland. Considerable outside money changed hands on the event

Bronchial affections result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh. Try this medicine.

The Report of the Managers of the East Portland "Baby Home."

An Intersection That Needs Attention—School Room Completed—Fine Dwelling—Remains Arrived—Wild Dash—False Report

The managers of the Baby Home of East Portland in fulfillment of their promise desire to submit the following report of the work done by them during the past ten months but more particularly of the six months last past of which no report has been published

First they wish to tender grateful thanks to the following persons who have placed The Home under obligations for the following donations

To Jacobs Brothers for four blankets. Corbitt & Macleay one box tea. J J Larsen & Co one box of soap, M Levy one box of peaches. Corbett & Failing one box infant shoes the same for cash $10. Henry Everding for cash $5. Fleishner & Mayer one piece calico. Mrs Schomp and friends at Irvington this county cash $5 and a load of vegetables. Widhams & Elliott one barrel flour. A friend for one sack potatoes. Mr Frank of Meier & Frank one bed comforter to complete the outfit of the blind boy. Johnny. Gov Pennoyer for a large donation of lumber and delivering the same to The Home. THE OREGONIAN and other papers for courtesies

There has been received during the ten months from all sources in cash $... 61. Expended $608 76

Our friends will see by this statement one indebtedness has been incurred and it is earnestly hoped a generous public will lift the burden so that the work need not be trammeled for want of the sinews of war

There have been received into the home during the time mentioned fifty one children of various ages from the infant of two weeks to the child of ten. Good homes have been found for ten. six have died number at present in Home fifteen

Since the last report the matron Mrs Clark has resigned and the board have secured to succeed her Mrs Harlan a lady of dignity refinement and culture who comes highly recommended as to qualifications and sterling Christian integrity. She with a competent assistant are carrying on the work of the Home carefully and smoothly and with proper economy

And now as to the needs of the institution. We need a piece of ground at least a block upon which to build a house large enough for our needs and the growing wants of the work we need a building upon this ground with ample room for the present and future. We believe confidently this will be supplied the coming year. It is not possible the good men and women of this and our sister city will let this work languish and die for want of funds. For the present we need warm clothing flannel and bedding to keep the little ones comfortable during the winter

Food is always in demand. Dear friends will you not remember this call and respond as your warm hearts dictate? The poor ye have always."

BAD INTERSECTION

The condition of the intersection of K and Sixteenth streets is such as to demand immediate attention. Sixteenth street was recently graded from Holladay avenue to Hawthorne and where the street intersects K the grade of Sixteenth is fully two feet below K street. Teams traveling on K street when they come to Sixteenth have to go down a jump off two feet high and strike a similar obstruction on the other side of the street. The intersection is a dangerous place coming from any direction. The east side reporter for an hour watched wagons and buggies struggle through the intersection. In every case it was almost impossible to get by at all. The last observed was a man and woman with a child and a load of choice house plants. The woman got out and the man drove on and managed to get through, but the plants and everything in the wagon were in a demoralized condition. Funeral processions avoid the street and take to N street where it is necessary to drive the horses at a trot to keep them out of the way of the motor. The street committee should see at once that the intersection of Sixteenth and K is put in a passable condition. It is a shame and disgrace to allow it to remain as it is

FINE ENTERTAINMENT

It was hoped that the lecture by Col Visscher given at Hall & Stott's hall last night, under the auspices of the Y M C A would draw a large audience but the attendance was not up to the expectations. However, this fact did not detract anything from the entertainment of the evening which was one of the finest given in East Portland. Mr Taylor's banjo playing called forth hearty applause. Of the lecture by Col Visscher, be it said it was full of interest from beginning to close. Full and running over with wit interspersed with beautiful thought and tender reflection it will not soon be forgotten by those who heard it

STREET CAR HORSE RUNS AWAY

Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock the large gray horse used on the Fifth street-car line south from N ran away. He took the car from N street the point of general transfer, to the end of the line at the slough all right but when he was detached from one end of the car to be hitched to the other end the horse was frightened breaking away from the driver and dashing like mad down Fifth to N. He then turned down N street and was soon at the company's stable where he demanded a big feed of oats. Some little excitement but no harm resulted

SCHOOL ROOM FINISHED

The contractor, C O Blakely has finished the schoolroom on the second floor of the North Central building and the directors will inspect the room and accept it. It is very neatly finished, and being situated on the west side of the building will be one of the pleasantest rooms in the building. The lack of room caused the directors to order the work to be done. It has been demonstrated beyond all question that the building of the North Central was a wise measure

A FINE RESIDENCE

Mr Fitzpatrick of Skamokawa is having the largest and finest residence built on the beautiful grounds west of Lone Fir cemetery that has been put up on the east side this year. It will cost when completed very near $4000. It will contain twelve large rooms. The location is a commanding one and from the second floor most of Portland can be seen. Mr Fitzpatrick expects to move into his beautiful home in the spring

SAD EVENT

The remains of Frank Leathers who was killed near Harrisburg Monday, were received here yesterday to the home he had so recently left full of life and health. The funeral will take place to-day from the Harrington block at 2 P M and the interment will be in Lone Fir. Mr and Mrs D L Leathers have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement

CHRISTMAS AT MIDWAY

Arrangements are being consummated for having a Christmas tree in the new school house at the enterprising little settlement of Midway. The folks there are making an early beginning in the matter evidently determined to make the affair a success. Next thing will be a petition to the legislature for consolidation with Portland from the ambitious place

ANOTHER FALSE REPORT

Some excitement was occasioned yesterday forenoon by the report that a Chinaman was down with smallpox near the car shops. The city marshal at once made an investigation and the result demonstrated that the report was without foundation

VALUATIONS FOR TAXES

PORTLAND OR Nov 27 1888

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Your editorial this morning captioned "A Flat Assessment" discusses an extremely important question a question your readers should be thankful you are willing to discuss. It is to your credit one who has paid attention to the subject and has had official experience with the general plan you suggest. As against that plan I beg to present another which I think is simpler less liable to be favorable to the rich and oppressive to the poor and at the same time one that will throw the burden of taxation where it ought to rest and relieve our business men of some of those hazards and risks which as Bradstreet's says cause 90 per cent of all business ventures to end in failure

Briefly then we ought to exempt all personal property and improvements from taxation and get our revenue by taxing land according to its value. In this way we get every farthing tax due. And it is right for money. It is easy to ... to escape. It is not ... the richest man in Portland ... the ... world ... to jump his taxes. If a man owns $30 000 worth of vacant property within the city limits he needs only to appear and swear that it has been assessed and then proceed to borrow an amount equal to that assessment and back this as a ... indebtedness against the property and thus escape without paying a cent. So common is this practice either in whole or in part here in Portland that we might as well say to it the vulgar phrase "They all do it." I hold that a tax system that enables men to do this opens wide the door to fraud and those unscrupulous tax jumpers in the community can throw the burden on legitimate business and poor men who are honest enough to pay their proportion to the general fund. There is no necessity for taxing personal property or improvements (by improvements I mean houses, barns machinery agricultural implements etc). It is the presence of personality and improvements that gives value to land and these must contribute where you tax that value. The reason land is worth more in Portland than in East Portland or in Hillsboro is that we have more improvements and with increased population will come increased improvements and increased value. Under our present system we tax a man's watch and his furniture. If a Portland father next Christmas gives to each of his two boys $150 as a Christmas present and one goes to a jeweler's and buys a $100 gold watch while the other blows his in on whisky gambling etc can anything be more absurd than to tax the one who bought the watch while there is no way of reaching the other unless he gets full enough to be taken in and fined?

If we tax land according to its value we need not insult the new comer with the inquisitorial list about the number of chairs, yards of carpet etc he may have in his house nor need we ask the farmer how many acres of class 1 class 2 or class 3 land he owns. All we have to do is to elect an intelligent assessor who can't be bamboozled and who if found dishonest must be punished by law. This assessor if intelligent can easily give a value to any piece of land in his district just as an expert real estate man can do. This value bears a certain rate of taxation as the different objects for which taxes are levied may require, and the owner of this land whoever he may be must within a certain time pay those taxes or it will be sold at auction for the same. A regular board may hear appeals as we do now, if a man thinks he has been treated unjustly. Eliminate entirely the indebtedness question, let the creditor and debtor adjust that matter to suit themselves and not burden the community with inquiring into their private transactions

And how many assessors can tell a $50 000 painting from a $10 000 one or a $1000 one from a $100 one? And who knows how much more valuable is the furniture of the wealthiest citizen than is the furniture of the ordinary comfortably circumstanced citizen? We can lie about the value of our stocks and bonds we can hide our jewelry and other valuables away we can tell the assessor we have $1000 worth of furniture when we really have $10 000 worth but we can't hide away our land or deceive an expert about its value. In changing our form of taxation from the multiplicity of objects to land value only we lessen the number of clerks necessary to collect the tax and thus inaugurate a desired economy we compel every person to pay some tax because we are all land animals and users of land and we shift the burden of supporting our government from the back of the industrious builder of cities to that of the non improving speculator and dog in the manger. Land in the city of Portland has been advancing in value right along, that value has been made by the increase in population and transportation and manufacturing facilities. If then, this is so, why let that value flow into private pockets to enrich certain land owning individuals, instead of into the public fund, by taxation to support our schools keep our roads in repair supply us with light and water and, if need be libraries, museums colleges art galleries, and the other good things we so much need?

R H THOMPSON

A SERMON CRITICISED

PORTLAND, Nov 27 1888

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Your correspondent who is a recent comer to this city betook himself last Sunday morning to the Taylor street M E church as is his wont where he has regularly received the word as expounded by the Rev Kummer with humility and satisfaction

But to say that he was surprised at some of Mr Kummer's statements last Sunday is putting it very mildly and your correspondent takes issue with the reverend gentleman on at least one important statement he then made. The sermon was on hospitals and the reasons for their maintenance. His church is worthily trying to establish and support one in Portland. But it is the candid opinion of your humble servant that if the sermon Mr Kummer delivered on this occasion was printed and largely circulated it would do more injury to the cause it was intended to advance than all other things combined and would also be of great harm to the city for he made one statement that was entirely erroneous and another that was very indiscreet

The statement your correspondent takes issue at was that "manufacturing establishments are the greatest source of accidents" and indeed Mr Kummer spoke of them as the greatest curse of the workingman and said "they are the minotaurs of the nation seeking whom they may devour"

Now he undoubtedly had not looked up the statistics of accidents, and did not know what he was talking about for it is a fact well known to insurance actuaries and so stated by them that factories as a class are not hazardous to work in, and the percentage of accidents in them is much less than in most out of door employments

If Portland is ever to become a large city it must have many large factories but if Rev Kummer voices anything like the sentiment of the city on the subject it would be safe to say that Portland will never be a large city

Then as a sort of amen or doxology to his sermon he wound up by advising that if Eastern people wished the privilege of entering this city the people here demand of them that they help support the hospitals and other charitable institutions of the city. This did indeed cap the climax. What a spectacle would the rich and prosperous city of Portland make demanding of Eastern cities money, as a right to build hospitals etc! These statements take rank for indiscretions with Rev Burchard's Rum Romanism and Rebellion

TAX FOR COUNTY PURPOSES.

Judge Catlin and Commissioner Smith Make a Levy of 8 2 Mills

Itemized Estimate of the Expenditures for the Ensuing Year—Cause of the Deficit This Year

County Judge Catlin and County Commissioner Smith met yesterday and levied a tax of 8 2 mills for county purposes, including a special road tax of ½ mill. The state military and university taxes will not be formally levied until the state tax levy is announced. The tax levied yesterday will give $182 486 74 for county purposes, including $11 127 74 for roads

Appended is the itemized estimate of expenditures for the ensuing year coupled with last year's estimate and the actual expenditures for the year

The deficit this year is $6060 56. When the tax levy was under consideration last year Judge Catlin proposed 7 mills but Commissioner Newell would not go above 6½ mills and Commissioner Corbett being absent he carried the day. The extra half mill tax would have obviated the deficit

BIG THINGS ON THE KLAMATH

A Great Enterprise on Klamath River That is to Do Much for Klamath County

The Klamath Star talks eloquently of a projected enterprise to be put into operation as soon as possible at Klamath City, a new town on Klamath river above the crossing of the O & C railroad. It says Mr La Flesh one of the parties engaged in the new enterprise that is being inaugurated at the old Anderson ferry on the Klamath river, some forty miles south of Linkville at a new town platted to be known as Klamath City, made us a call Saturday last. This ferry and the ground belonging thereto was recently sold to these parties by David Horn well known to many of the old residents of Siskiyou county California, for the consideration of $6500. The object of the purchase as given us by Mr La Flesh is for the purpose of erecting a large number of mills and woodenware factories. The company have secured the rights to the land for some distance above the ferry on each side of the river for mill sites lumber yards and other purposes. The first work to be done will be the building of the first dam across the river and that of the sawmill itself, and for this purpose a large number of men have already been employed and are now at work. The machinery is now on the way and by the time spring opens there will have been erected one of the greatest saw mills on the coast one that will cut 10 000 feet of lumber per hour, with other buildings too numerous to mention. By the time another harvest approaches there will be at least 1000 men employed in and for this wonderful enterprise so near our door. Right here we will say that the farmers of Klamath county need not longer fear the want of a market for everything they can produce as 400 or 500 laboring men consume an enormous amount of breadstuff and not only that but they must have hay and grain for their cattle and horses. Hence a boom for our county and hence the near approach of the long talked of railroad to this section as we think that the first foot of earth has been removed along the line of railroad that is to extend to Linkville and on to the Sound. We wish success to the enterprise and may the time be close at hand when Klamath City will number 10 000 inhabitants, and Klamath county be compelled to furnish them with every pound of flour, hay and grain, every pound of beef bacon and lard, butter and eggs, in fact everything else required to make bone and muscle for the laborer

A WEARY FARCE

Prohibition carried only two of the fifty four counties of West Virginia The majority against it is nearly 40,000 Is it not time to abandon this solemn thing of dealing or attempting to deal with the liquor question and come to general agreement on the plain and practical point of the utmost possible restriction and regulation through the high license or tax system In the state of New York it is difficult to get even a tax law Prohibition itself would be defeated by a majority of half a million On the plain proposition of a high license or tax law for the state Warner Miller came near an election and would have been elected had the third party prohibitionists not thrown their votes in such a way as to elect the liquor candidate Reason and common sense will be asserted ere long in dealing with this question and then we shall have the utmost possible restriction and regulation of the liquor traffic with such taxation as can be enforced The curtain to this prohibition farce should have been rung down long ago

INVOKING THE SOUTH

If some of the wiseacres who are guessing at everything in sight would try their hands at making a guess as to what will become of the Solid South they would occupy an enticing field and might guess away with all their might with a certainty of doing no harm. Just now the Solid South is rather shaky in the knees and has actually a mist before its eyes where Delaware and the two Virginias have always been A few more such elections and there will be no Solid South left

If the South was wide enough awake to its own interests to make issues on which whites and blacks could divide and build up such a political contest as would be congenial to Southern interests, then there would be legitimate issues and ties, and they need not longer wave that miserable "bloody shirt" Banish the negro from politics and make him think for himself and politics will shape to suit conditions If the South could get along without hating somebody or imagining that they were hated in turn everything would be lovely and the Southern goose would honk high

TOO MUCH FOR THE MONEY

On the 20th inst an examination was held at the rooms of the civil service commission in Washington, D C to fill a vacancy at a salary of $1200 per annum in the geological survey as a proof reader the following qualifications being required Experience as a practical printer experience and skill as a proof reader critical knowledge of the English language with punctuation capitalization etc good knowledge of the French language for translating purposes elementary knowledge of French and German so far as necessary for revising in manuscript and proof scientific names and terminations, titles of works, etc some acquaintance with Italian and Spanish orthography also knowledge of the meaning of mathematical signs and formulae

No wonder men of sense in both England and America protest against such a system of competitive examinations which require a man to possess the knowledge of a college professor to fill a position which pays but $100 a month. A proof reader who knew enough to pass such an examination would be worth double this salary and could easily get it of a large metropolitan journal A man who could pass this examination and was willing to work for this salary the Graphic says would be a mighty poor proof reader

WHAT WOULD COME TO PASS.

A democratic journal of Connecticut says "The vote in the center of the woolen goods trade shows that the free wool item of the Mills bill helped rather than hurt the democratic party

In the manufacturing centers it did help the democratic party because it offered free wool to the selfish and short sighted manufacturers—selfish because they were willing to deprive the woolgrower of protection provided they could still have protection for their goods, and short sighted because they could not see that if wool was put on the free list every wool grower in the country would be converted into a free trader, and would instantly demand free trade in woolen goods

So if the free wool item of the Mills bill didn't hurt the democratic party in the manufacturing centers it did hurt that party in the rural districts and thereby caused its defeat.

The number of persons employed in production of materials throughout the United States is far greater than the number employed in the final process of manufacture and if the producers of materials are not to have protection the producers of finished goods can not have it The selfish and short sighted manufacturers and their employes in Connecticut New Jersey New York city and other manufacturing centers would do well to stick a pin there If free trade is so good a thing and the East and South persist in trying to force its benefits on us of the North and West we shall insist that they take their share of its benefits also Then if they get their materials and farm products at free trade prices we shall get our clothing and hardware at free trade prices And then very likely manufacturers and their hired people in Connecticut New Jersey and New York city will begin to get a new idea and inquire whether free trade is so good a thing as they thought it

FISHERIES

The North Atlantic fisheries are held at immense value as a source of continued revenue and endless wealth Every year the ocean brings its schools of fish and the fishing fleets go forth to their harvest as regularly as the farmer reaps his grain The damage five millions—given against the United States for the alleged infraction of Canadian rights indicates the immense value placed upon the Atlantic fisheries yet until recently the world seems to have not even surmised that fisheries of equal value exist on the North Pacific Recent investigation shows that such is the fact and whatever values can be placed upon the Atlantic fisheries we can duplicate in values existing along the Northwest coast

Before many years the small harbors along the coast of Oregon and Washington will be as important as are the fishing ports of Massachusetts It will not be too much to claim that our deep-sea fisheries will turn off as much value in product as now do the salmon fisheries and canneries that exist from the Sacramento river to the waters of Alaska This will insure resources to support a large and enterprising population and add millions of revenue to our region.

It is a remarkable fact that the resources of our portion of the world have never been appreciated at their true worth until very recently, and even now the truth as to what the North Pacific region possesses and what it is capable of is only beginning to dawn on the minds of men. Let the world know that fisheries await the coming of experienced fishermen and that other resources equal to any known elsewhere are silent because skill and enterprise are wanting, and many will leave the too well trodden paths of the world's work and trade to get into new fields The world can not offer more than exists here and waits for enterprise to come and possess it.

STORY OF THE MESSAGE

An interesting story is told of the genesis of the president's tariff message of last year and as it is told through the New York World it may be supposed to have filtered to that paper through democratic channels and therefore to have come "from the inside"

It is asserted through the World that though President Cleveland is the putative father of that message he is not its real author It is further stated that the real author is Manton Marble formerly editor of the World a writer of ability and reputation and master of a peculiar style which is said to be easily detected by persons acquainted with it in many parts of the message Mr Marble furnished a first draft and pressed upon Mr Cleveland the idea that a political revolution would sweep over the Western states if the democracy only would pluck up the courage to make a bold fight on the tariff issue Mr Cleveland was at first reluctant and it took some time to bring him round But Mr Marble found effective allies in Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier Journal and in members of the cabinet who were urged to press upon Mr Cleveland the idea of issuing a message stripped bare of all outside adornments and placed before congress and the country as a naked tariff revision proposition from the consideration of which neither party nor any individual of either party could escape

After going over the draft submitted by Mr Marble and after many consultations upon it with members of the cabinet a document was produced which the president consented to accept All the members of the cabinet except Secretary Whitney had seen and approved it Mr Whitney had been absent for a considerable time in New York and upon his return the president submitted the document to him He strongly urged the inexpediency of issuing it said it presented just such an issue as the republicans most desired and which they had repeatedly tried to force on the democratic party He insisted that without this direct issue in the approaching canvass the opposition would have nothing to do but to make a fight by attacks on the general policy and character of the administration and on this there could be no question of their defeat The result would be the vindication of the administration and its patriotism and integrity would become historical through the discussions of the canvass.

The story goes that all the members of the cabinet opposed Whitney's position, and urged the expediency of the message at that time Vilas in particular took ground against Whitney and in his flippant style talked about 'cowardice' in politics, and accused his colleague of want of manliness in his temporizing and expediency policy To which Whitney quietly answered that he had never heard that prudence in planning a campaign was a mark of cowardice or recklessness and bravado indications of courage"

In spite of Whitney's protests it was determined that the message should be sent to congress In rewriting the document furnished by Mr Marble the style was changed somewhat but the argument was substantially that prepared by Marble and many of his characteristic expressions are recognizable throughout it The World's story closes with this statement viz "No one believes that Mr Manning although like Mr Whitney an honest friend of tariff reform and tax reduction, would have indorsed the policy of the president's message as the opening gun of the campaign The speedy return fire opened by Mr Blaine from the other side of the ocean is said to be the first eye opener the president got to enable him to see the wisdom of Mr Whitney's position

So if this story from a high democratic source is to be credited Mr Cleveland was not the author of his tariff message and the story is probable both intrinsically and extrinsically Intrinsically from its style and from the fact that it was at notable variance with his own former deliverances on the tariff and extrinsically from these minute statements and details as to the origin of the document furnished by the most prominent democratic newspaper of the country Certainly this narrative is not favorable to the claim set up for Mr Cleveland that he is a man of strong and original mind

POSITIONS IN THE CABINET

The New York Graphic describes a place in the cabinet as one of "hard work poor pay and a political grave" The last part of this assertion is not borne out by history Washington's cabinet included Jefferson as secretary of state and Hamilton as secretary of the treasury John Adams's secretary of state was John Marshall and his secretary of the treasury Oliver Wolcott Jefferson's secretary of state was Madison and his secretary of the treasury Albert Gallatin Madison's secretary of the treasury was James Monroe, his secretary of the treasury Albert Gallatin succeeded by Wm H Crawford Monroe's secretary of state was John Quincy Adams his secretary of war John C Calhoun his secretary of the treasury William H Crawford John Quincy Adams's secretary of state was Henry Clay and his attorney general William Wirt Andrew Jackson's secretary of state was Martin Van Buren who was succeeded by Edward Livingston his secretary of the treasury was Roger B Taney his secretary of war Lewis Cass Harrison's secretary of state was Daniel Webster his secretary of the treasury Thomas Ewing his secretary of war John Bell his attorney general John J Crittenden Tyler's secretary of state was Daniel Webster succeeded by John C Calhoun his secretary of the treasury was John C Spencer Polk's secretary of state was James Buchanan his secretary of the treasury Robert J Walker his secretary of war Wm L Marcy Taylor's secretary of state was John M Clayton his secretary of the interior Thomas Ewing his attorney general Reverdy Johnson Fillmore's secretary of state was Daniel Webster his secretary of the treasury Thomas Corwin W L Marcy Jeff Davis and Caleb Cushing were among the members of Pierce's cabinet while Buchanan's cabinet included Cass Jeremiah S Black, John A Dix and E M Stanton Lincoln's cabinet included Seward Chase Fessenden Cameron Stanton Johnson's cabinet included Seward, Stanton, Grant and Wm M Evarts Grant's cabinet included Hamilton Fish Boutwell Bristow, Cox Chandler E R Hoar and George H Williams Hayes's secretary of the treasury was John Sherman and his secretary of state Wm M Evarts his attorney general was Charles Devens Garfield's chief advisers were Blaine and Windom while Arthur's cabinet included Frelinghuysen Folger and Wm E Chandler

It is very clear that a cabinet position did not prove a political grave to any of these except in cases where too old when appointed to think of further political activity or when they entered the cabinet without any reputation for superior parts and left it with their character for plain unfitness and incurable mediocrity totally unimpaired So far from proving a political grave, a cabinet appointment to men of high promise has proved the ladder from which they have stepped to positions of higher fame and more permanent value. Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Van Buren and Buchanan all became presidents after cabinet service John Marshall John McLean Roger B Taney Nathan Clifford Levi Woodbury and Salmon P Chase all passed from the cabinet to the U S supreme bench Crawford Clay Calhoun Cass Webster Ewing Bell Crittenden Marcy Reverdy Johnson Edward Everett Jeff Davis Dix Evarts John Sherman, Blaine did not find the cabinet a political grave On the contrary, to a man of brains, who is not too old a cabinet position, next to the U S senate is perhaps the most conspicuous and advantageous opportunity to make a national reputation known to our politics Secretary Fish at the close of his eight years of service in Grant's cabinet stood higher with his countrymen than he ever had before although he had been governor of New York and U S senator and had he been a younger man and cared to lift his finger for himself he would have been nominated for president by the republican party in 1876 or in 1880 The blunder of the anti Blaine republicans in 1876 and 1880 was that they did not hearken to the counsels of prudence and nominate Secretary Fish for president instead of compromising upon Hayes at Cincinnati and Garfield at Chicago The historical evidence is ample that to men of brains who are not too old a cabinet appointment has proved a great political advantage

The law of Oregon in regard to making up returns of elections and forwarding the same to the secretary of state was made for "slow times" It allows the county officers ten days after the close of an election to canvass the votes and make an abstract thereof for transmission to the secretary of state and if the returns from any county are not received within thirty days after the election the secretary of state must send a messenger for the same Since these are days of rapid communication, it would be well for the legislature to require more expedition in making up election returns and forwarding them to the secretary of state Three days after an election is ample time to allow for canvassing the vote, and the law should require the returns to be mailed to the secretary within five days after an election under penalty for neglect

A pamphlet has been printed giving the record of "The Terry Contempt Case at San Francisco It presents a statement of the conduct of Terry and wife in the U S circuit courtroom together with the orders of the court committing the parties for contempt and the opinion of Justice Field refusing Terry's petition for release which was concurred in by Sawyer circuit judge and Sabin, district judge A history of the case is presented in the opinion, and many affidavits of witnesses are given to support it Also a fac simile of Terry's knife and another of Mrs Terry's pistol the [illegible] which the interesting couple flourished on the occasion The whole makes a unique court record

The canvass of the electoral vote of North Carolina shows 148 336 votes for the democratic candidates 131,709 votes for the republican candidates and 2797 votes for the prohibition candidates Democratic plurality [illegible] In 1884 the vote for the democratic electors was 142 952 for the republican electors 125 068 for the prohibition electors 454 Democratic plurality 17 884 In North Carolina as in Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee the republicans are steadily gaining in the white counties

The South's Failure and Triumph

Gath in Cincinnati Enquirer (Dem)

The salvation of the South is going to be either in going to the Yankee or taking the Yankee in They have lost about twenty three years of good time already in their political exploitings endeavoring to set the world right by voting solid The failure is complete But this failure is more apparent than real the election of Harrison is going to bring out those who have walked the vale of humility in the South who have suppressed their own sentiments and who have hurrahed at what they did not value Mr Cleveland has occupied an interregnum in the history of events and after him the events will go on

BOSTON QUINTETTE CLUB.

All music lovers should interest themselves in the coming of the renowned Boston Quintette Club which is to present one of the greatest musical treats our city has ever enjoyed. Such artists as Rhodes Mendelssohn, Stoevig, Blumenburg and Miss Carpenter are not every day found in one organization. Each artist alone is a concert in himself. The following extract is clipped from an exchange in reference to the great Blumenburg:

The violoncello in the hands of an artist like Louis Blumenburg was as the "The Lyre of Apollo" to draw the hearts of all the music-loving people to such entertainments. His playing was full of irresistible charm, and fully sustained his reputation as a musician and virtuoso. His airs from Hongrois were received with a storm of applause, and he responded with an air from Trovatore. Even then the audience was not satisfied, and he gave as a second encore the Spinning Song.

NO SMALLPOX AT BROWNSVILLE

BROWNSVILLE Or, Nov 26

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Reports are being circulated around the state that the smallpox is raging here. We deem it necessary to make a plain statement of facts in the matter and one that can be proved by the physicians and citizens of this place.

The undersigned members of the council of the city of North Brownsville do hereby certify that there is not now nor ever has been a case of smallpox in this city, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

TO MORROW'S LUNCH.

The reputation gained by the Gem is fully sustained in all departments and with the recurrence of the holidays comes the usual extra lunch, which includes delicacies not usually found on other days. The Gem under the proprietorship of Joe Penny will offer the customary turkey and other good things between 11 A M and 2 P M. In all respects gentlemen are assured every comfort at this resort.

THEY DO IT WELL

It's unnecessary to tell those who know what good things is of the Gilman house lunches and particularly of to morrow's layout. They are great, and the roast pig [illegible] Joe the steward has selected for Thanksgiving are ready to be prepared in the usual palatable style, for the lunch that day. Egg nogg will be in plenty at the bar and a treat is in store during lunch hours which will extend till [illegible] P M.

BRIEF MENTION

PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

VERY CHEAP TRAVELING —"There is no excuse for a man not traveling now," said a railroad ticket agent yesterday. "It is cheaper to travel than to stay at home. Did you ever hear of such rates as we offer now?" he continued, leading the unoffending reporter into his private office and spreading out a map. "For $115 we take you to Chicago and back first class, stop off where you please and stay as long as you like. You can go away round [illegible] across the middle of the continent. Why it used to cost more than that to go to Chicago. Isn't it wonderful how cheap traveling is?" It does seem a cheap trip, but when a man hasn't $115 or any approximate sum what good do cheap rates do him? This seemed to strike the agent in the right place and he turned his back on the reporter and fixing his glittering eye on a gentleman who just then came in, began explaining the beauties of his great route and urging the advisability of traveling instead of staying at home.

THEY WILL FARE SUMPTUOUSLY —Chief of Police Parrish was busy yesterday purchasing the materials for a fine Thanksgiving dinner for the patients in the pest house and also for the Frishcorn and Caspari families. The funds so liberally subscribed for this purpose by persons at the Gilman house and J D Myers's were ample to furnish a sumptuous dinner for all and the chief was as happy as a sand boy while buying turkeys and oysters, and even claret for the patients. "I asked the doctor, you see," he remarked, "what they could eat and he told me they could eat anything I could, so am going to send them all just as good a dinner as I can get," and he passed in a half gallon demijohn to be filled with oysters. The chief has been on deck day and night for some time and his success in preventing the spread of disease is very gratifying to him.

LET THAT WAS A DRAW —Two well known real estate dealers were yesterday discussing the relative merits of investments to the edification of a crowd of gentlemen anxious listeners. Each declared that he could name the prettiest, healthiest and, all things considered, the best property to invest in for the amount of money required and the surest place to make money. They put up $50 apiece with Mr Stiles as stakeholder, agreeing each were to write the name of the real estate on a paper and give to the stakeholder. Two judges were chosen, they to choose a third if necessary. When all was arranged the papers were opened and as both had named the lots in Highland as the best place to invest the bet was declared a draw. Each however felt complimented by having his judgment indorsed.

CITY FINANCES —For a wonder the city is going to get through the year with a little money in the treasury. There has been an economical administration of the funds and the expenses have been kept within the revenue. There are also some extras to carry over, as $8000 from the public levee for work done there by the city before it was handed over to the narrow gauge company and $1500 from A N King on an old bill for street improvement. There is also a prospect that the city assessment may be increased half a million or so if no huge mistake has been made. So it looks as if the city might indulge in a little more expense for street lighting and still have money to make a corresponding increase in the service of the street cleaning and sprinkling department.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING—ELECTION — At the last night's meeting of the stockholders of the American Building & Loan Association of Minneapolis the following directors were elected: James F Watson, R C Stratton, I D Brown, D D Oliphant, J N Hill, D I Sherman, George Woodward, H B Oatman, George H Durham, Charles W Knowles, Walter F Burrell, R L Durham, A H Breyman, R A Habersham and E S Larsen. After the stockholders' meeting having adjourned the elected directors met and elected the following officers: President George H Durham, secretary R G Morrow, treasurer R J Durham, attorney James F Watson, abstractors Pacific Coast Abstract Company, appraisers I D Brown, George Woodward and H B Oatman.

SMITH'S CASE APPEALED —In the report of the preliminary examination in Justice Tuttle's court of W A Smith arrested on complaint of John Lundberg for the larceny of $10, no mention was made of the fact that Mr Smith had appealed the case. Such however is the case. Mr Smith, thinking that the fine of $50 imposed upon him by the court is entirely unjust, has appealed the case to state court. The imputations of swindling and lack of good faith on his part he says, are false, as he made the contract with Lundberg with no other purpose than an honorable one. He says he had no intention whatever to defraud Lundberg out of $10 or any other sum. "Had I been fined only 10 cents by the justice," said Mr Smith, "I should have appealed the case all the same."

LEE SHUNG'S PRETTY CHINESE COUSIN — Lee Shung and Sing Lung convicted for stabbing Chung Foo last July were taken to the penitentiary yesterday to serve two years each. Before they were taken to the Salem train they were visited by Chinese friends who called for the purpose of sympathizing with them in their misfortune. Among them was Lee Shung's cousin, a pretty little Chinese woman about five feet high who was most conspicuous in her sympathy. When the time of their departure arrived the little woman sobbed as if her heart would break, and when the two prisoners handcuffed were being escorted down the street she threw kisses at them and sobbed until they faded out of side.

WORK ON THE NORTH JETTY —Arrangements for beginning work on the north jetty at Yaquina bay are well along toward completion. Wharf privileges at Newport are being negotiated for where barges can land rock for the work. From the wharf a railway is to be constructed around the beach to the end of the jetty and the right of way for this is to be secured. The old lighthouse property on the point below Newport has been ordered turned over to the engineers by the lighthouse board. The jetty will run out 2300 feet which will bring the ends of the two jetties opposite each other and there will be an entrance between them 1000 feet wide.

Y M C A WORK —Mr H J [illegible] traveling secretary of the associations of the Pacific Northwest reached this city yesterday morning from The Dalles. Mr Jackson is making a thorough tour of the associations which for any cause require awakening up and a revival of interest and work. He has just returned from a successful trip to Spokane Falls, Walla Walla and The Dalles, having infused a new life into the organizations and placed them in a great measure on a sound financial basis besides. Mr Jackson left again at 11 30 o'clock last night for Astoria, where he will remain until the opening of the Moody meetings in this city.

A HORSE KILLED —Two young bloods went out in the country for a drive on Sunday and coming home their buggy broke down. They abandoned it and each mounting a horse rode into town. Coming down J street they were racing, when one of the horses plunged into an open sewer, its rider landing on the soft earth thrown out and escaping injury. Considerable digging was necessary before the horse could be extricated and the poor brute died soon after it was taken out. The usual red lights were hung out as danger signals but the young men were going so fast that they paid no attention to them.

FRANK GOT CANED —Last evening Frank Keller of the Bon, got a well deserved caning. The parties implicated in the affair laid it on him good and heavy. The affair started in about 10 30 o'clock and did not draw to a close until about 4 this morning. Many of Frank's friends took part in the proceedings, and the outcome showed Mr Keller to be ahead by one of the handsomest $25 gold headed canes we have seen in the city. The occasion was his thirty fifth birthday and will be remembered by him as a most pleasant one and the souvenir cane cherished as a valued memento.

DO NOT BITE WELL —Suckers do not seem to be biting with their usual avidity just now and the fakir at the corner of Washington and First streets has to expend a vast amount of wind in getting rid of his brass watches at $5 each. He appears however, to have an unlimited amount of wind and jawbone as well as brass and would make a shining light of the salvation army. It would be difficult to imagine a more dreadful ending than for a man to be tied up and talked to death by this fog horn fakir.

ONLY A CHIMNEY ON FIRE —At 8 30 o'clock last night the fire department was called out in answer to an alarm sent in from box 12. Arriving at the corner of Morrison and First streets it was found that quite a crowd had already congregated, all looking towards the liquor store of G Ginocchio & Co, No 164 First street. It was first thought that there was a fire in the apartments of Mrs Dr Murray, but on an examination through the kitchen and adjoining room no trace of any fire could be found. It was then discovered that sparks were flying from the chimney and it was evident that no other fire existed. Chief Morgan and a part of the department remained on the ground some time to await further developments, but no fire materialized. It was the usual verdict: "Only a chimney fire."

THE COACH LADY MAUD —The Portland & Vancouver Railway Company has purchased from the Oregonian Railway Co (limited) the handsome passenger car "Lady Maud," named for the daughter of the Earl of Airlee and used as a president's car for some time. The car will be brought down from Woodburn some day this week, and the company expect to have it running on Sunday. It will form a fine addition to the rolling stock of the road and be much more comfortable for passengers than the flatcars which the company has been obliged to use frequently to accommodate large travel on their line.

OUT AGAIN —Mr Peter Kalish, who was so dangerously cut on the neck by a colored Pullman porter some time since, was out on the street yesterday looking somewhat thinner for his stay in the hospital. He exhibited a scar which to say the least is not ornamental. "The scoundrel came near cutting your head off," said the reporter. "That's what's the matter," said Pete, "he cut off four wanes slick." When Mr Kalish next undertakes to rescue a fugitive from the wrath of a colored porter he will lay out the porter the first thing and rescue the fugitive at his leisure.

NEW LODGE INSTITUTED —Portland Lodge No 2 of the order of the Triple Alliance has been instituted in this city by Dr Franz Schonwald, supreme grand deputy. The other officers elected were as follows: Zacharias Zimmermann patriarch, Mrs Ottilie Steinking, H[illegible] Nelis chief captain, Bernhart B[illegible] captain of the guard, Louis Worbatz first lieutenant, Heinrich Moller second lieutenant, Julius Sekler secretary, Johann Matteson treasurer, Friedrich Hoecker sergeant, Mrs Alvina Matteson chaplain, Dr Wm Fisen medical examiner.

THE JAM TO NIGHT —The young ladies of Trinity mission guild have decided to call their entertainment to night at the Bishop Scott Academy hall a "Jam." By offering jams of all kinds, preserves, pickles, etc., it is thought the name is appropriate. It remains, however, for all good people charitably inclined to make the name appropriate by attending in such numbers as to literally make it a jam. It will be the only chance to get a bona fide home made mince pie for Thanksgiving dinner.

SERIOUS FALL —Last evening Mrs F W Robinson of No 150 South First street, wife of Policeman Robinson and sister of Judge J C Moreland, walked into the open trap door of the cellar at the rear of her residence and sustained a severe fall of about eight feet, striking on her head. She received serious injury in wrenching the neck and small of the back. At a late hour she was suffering greatly and Dr Saylor, who was called to wait upon her, had strong doubts as to the outcome of the accident.

A COPY RECEIVED —A copy of the Minneapolis city charter and ordinances, court and board acts, park ordinances, sanitary regulations etc, was received at the auditor's office yesterday. It is a neatly printed and substantially bound book of some 1200 pages, and may perhaps furnish our city fathers with information on points which have troubled them. The book is accompanied by a request that the favor be reciprocated by this city.

A CHANCE FOR HANLON AND BROWN — George Hanlon and Willie Brown, the boy thieves, have a chance to escape the penitentiary. Ira F Powers, agent of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, is making arrangements to ship them abroad on an outgoing vessel. Judge Stearns, who sentenced them, would rather see them out of the country than in Salem.

THE ANIMAL WAS SHOT —The horse of Ferenback, the sausage maker, which was injured by a locomotive on Fourth street on Monday, was shot by Policeman Wilmer yesterday, it having been decided that its injuries were of such a nature as to render it unfit for further service. The loss is quite a severe one to the owner of the animal, who is a poor man, but it is not known that the railroad employes were to blame in the matter.

"STUCK ON PARLOR 51" —Mr B Campbell, general freight agent of the O R & N Co, who has been in St Louis for some time attending the meeting of the Transcontinental Association, and whose return has been daily expected, telegraphed yesterday to his assistant Mr James Woodward from Chicago to which place the meeting adjourned as follows: "The association is stuck on parlor 51, time of adjournment indefinite."

TO THE BENEVOLENTLY INCLINED MERCHANTS AND OTHERS —Among the recently established benevolences in this city we would at this Thanksgiving time respectfully name the Portland hospital as one of the claimants of our thanksgiving offerings. A postal in that behalf to John Kenworthy, superintendent of the Portland hospital will receive prompt and thankful attention.

ENJOYING THEMSELVES — Loud peals of joyous hearty laughter proceeding from the big cell at the city jail yesterday showed that some jovial light-hearted vagabonds were incarcerated there and recalled the lines of Dr Watts:

> Stone walls do not a prison make
> Nor iron bars a cage.

CONDITION SLIGHTLY IMPROVED — There seemed to be a slight improvement in the condition of Col. W W Chapman yesterday and it is hoped that he will recover the use of his limbs. He is over 80 years of age but for a man of his years is remarkably well preserved both mentally and physically, considering the amount of hardship he endured in pioneer days.

NECESSARIES AT HALF PRICE — Wednesday and Thursday is towel day at J Selling & Co's. Extra quality Damask 19x37 at 25 cents, Turkish towels 20x40 at 25 cents, Huck fringed edge 18x36 all at 25 cents. As their regular value is 50 cents will expect to clean out lot of 500 dozen. Hotels and restaurants and families lay in supply while able.

CONGRATULATIONS TELEGRAPHED — Mayor Blackman of Heppner, Morrow county, telegraphed to Mayor DeLashmutt his congratulations on the completion of railroad communication between that city and Portland. A suitable reply was returned by Mr D I Sherman on behalf of Mayor DeLashmutt who is at Coeur d'Alene.

THROWN FROM A WAGON —Mr Henry Mills while driving into town on a load of wood yesterday was thrown off coming down the Canyon road and seriously hurt. He was carried to a house near by and a physician summoned. The extent of his injuries is not known but it was feared that they would prove fatal.

COMING TO OUR THANKSGIVING —Company H O N G of Astoria, accompanied by a large excursion from that city, will attend Company E's Thanksgiving ball at the armory. The Hillsboro company will also be present, so those present may expect to see most of the beauty and the chivalry of this section there.

THE NORTH BEACH RAILROAD —The Ilwaco and North Beach railroad has been graded beyond the Briscoe tract in Pacific county, Washington territory, and will be ready for the rails in February. No tracklaying has been done for several months. The road will be finished to its terminus in May or June.

COMPANY E's BALL—To-morrow (Thanksgiving night) Company E give their party and from the amount of work done by the members it promises to be one of the most pleasant affairs of the season. Each lady attending will be presented with a pair of black kids. Tickets for couples $1.

TAYLOR STREET CHURCH SOCIAL—The ladies of Taylor street church will give one of their pleasant socials in the church parlors, Wednesday evening, November 28. A fine programme has been prepared. Admission 10 cents.

MR. GOUNOD'S SECOND CONCERT will be given Friday, December 7.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES —There will be special Thanksgiving services at the Taylor street M E church. The pastor, the Rev Alfred Kummer, will preach the sermon. Special music, under the management of Mrs Wetzell, will be rendered. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

GIVING TAFFY —Webster does not define this expression, but Swetland is good authority on the subject of sweetness. His popular Boston chips will be made fresh to-day for Thanksgiving and many new novelties are displayed. The store will be open all day to-morrow.

PLENTY OF OYSTERS.—Keith Bros, No 7 Washington street, have received large supplies of Eastern and Shoalwater bay oysters and are ready to attend to whatever their customers may want in their line for Thanksgiving. Eastern oysters on the half shell.

ARRESTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT —James Brancle, wanted in New York for embezzlement, languishes behind the bars in the county jail. Sunday evening Sheriff Kelly arrested him in a hotel where he registered under the name of J C Brock.

HANDSOME PICTURE GIVEN AWAY —On Thanksgiving Day only a handsome picture 9x14 inches, enough to ornament any parlor, will be given to the purchaser of every 50-cent box of Baum & Brandes' fine candies.

DANGEROUSLY ILL —The many friends of Miss Nettie Starkey will be pained to learn that she is lying dangerously ill with hemorrhage of the lungs and but slight hopes are entertained of her recovery.

THANKSGIVING BALL —Rising Sun Council No 1 O P give the first ball for the benefit of Germania lodge No 12 K of P to-morrow evening November 29 at Turn hall. Tickets $1.

BEEN DELAYED —The change contemplated in the time of the departure of the Short Line train has been delayed and will probably go into effect a week from Sunday.

OFFICIALLY NOTIFIED —Swiss Vice Consul G Shindler was yesterday officially notified of the death of W F Hertenstein, president of the Swiss republic.

DON'T FAIL to go to the fine entertainment at Taylor street church to-night.

THE STAGE

NEW PARK THEATER —Another fine house enjoyed "Chip O' the Old Block" last evening, and the fun was fast and furious.

Miss Jessie Bonestelle increased the favorable impression made on Monday night and evoked unstinted applause in her songs and imitations. She is a delightfully fresh and naive soubrette, clever in the extreme. Mr Scott's Commodore was as amusing as could be imagined, while Harry Mills's Jack Lightfoot was a perfect piece of character work. The musical numbers were all finely rendered and altogether the piece was as mirth provoking as can be imagined. Whoever wants to enjoy a spontaneous laugh as well as good singing and dancing should see "Chip O' the Old Block."

Matinee to-morrow (Thanksgiving) afternoon.

The piece runs the week.

A matinee will be given at the New Park to-morrow afternoon. "A Chip o' the Old Block" will be produced. This will be for the special benefit of the ladies and little folks.

THE STANDARD —Manager Cort has been here for several days past and has decided to give a family Thanksgiving matinee at his theater in this city to-morrow afternoon. No liquors or cigars will be sold or used in the auditorium on this occasion and the best of order will prevail. Ladies and children are specially invited.

NEW SAVINGS BANK

The Savings Bank of the Portland Trust Company of Oregon is conducted upon a safe and conservative basis. It is kept open during the usual banking hours of each business day, and also on Saturday nights from 6 to 8 o'clock. LIGHTHOUSE ON DESTRUCTION ISLAND

Slow Progress on the New Station—A Low and Lonely Habitation.

Information has been received at Maj Handbury's office in regard to the progress being made on the lighthouse being constructed on Destruction island off the coast of Washington territory. The letter was brought from the island to the mainland by Indians in a canoe and carried by messenger to a postoffice.

Mr Carkeek of Seattle has the contract. He has one of the dwellings and the barn completed and a cistern nearly finished and has cleared away the brush from the site for the other improvements. The island is low and contains about twenty three acres. The weather has been very stormy of late and spray has been thrown over the entire island. Everything is damp there, even the postage stamps on letters locked up in a trunk are melted off. There is no wood on the island except driftwood, so it cannot be a very pleasant or healthy place of residence at this season of the year.

Great difficulty is experienced in landing building material and supplies on the island. The schooner comes to an anchor under the lee of the island and discharges as much stuff as possible and when evening comes on she has to put out to sea and in the morning work up to her position under the lea of the island again, which takes some time.

PERSONAL

Maj W A Jones leaves to-day for the scene of the government work at Texas Rapids, Snake river.

Mr H C Leonard has gone East for the winter. He will visit New York and then probably go South.

Maj T H Handbury, U S engineer, has gone to California to attend a meeting of the mining debris board, of which he is a member.

State Fish Commissioner F P Thompson left yesterday afternoon for San Jose, Cal to visit his parents. He will return about January 1.

Clerk A N Church of part 2 state circuit court has been away from his desk two days nursing a vaccinated arm, and his place is being filled by Clerk Fryer of department No 1. Chief Clerk Dull is still kept home with rheumatism.

THE DAIRY AND THE FARM.

The Different Ways of Putting Up Butter Intelligently Discussed

Dairying in Wisconsin and Oregon—The Dairy man of the Future—Cross Breeding Sheep—Barrelling Apples

Major Alvord has the following on the above subject in the American Cultivator

In the best retail butter markets there is a very general popular preference for the print form. Purchasers want their butter attractive in appearance and so they select the small rolls, pats or blocks, round, square or brick shaped, generally bearing some design or trade mark stamped or pressed upon the butter, which gives to this class of the article the name of prints. This preference is simply one of the many pieces of evidence afforded by retail markets of the close relation of the eye and appetite and the importance of the looks of the thing in selling any food product.

There is another side however to the print butter subject which is not often considered. Those persons most particular about their butter regard its most important qualities to be sweetness, freshness and high flavor. We all know butter to be an extremely perishable produce, injured even when carefully made by exposure to air and the contaminations which are conveyed in the air. This is the reason so much attention has been given to butter packages of all kinds. The more butter is exposed to the air the greater are the chances of its injury. The print form, especially if the prints are small, offers the greatest surface exposure. The print is the very worst form in which butter can be put for preserving its delicate flavors. Small rolls stand best in this respect. In both cases the danger of injury is lessened by wrapping in a napkin or cloth saturated with brine. The waxed or parchment paper which has come into use within a few years also furnishes a good protection. If butter is to be printed at all every print or lump should be carefully and closely wrapped in the water proof paper to make a package as nearly air tight as possible before leaving the dairy room where it is made. Thus protected, if well cooled and firm, the closer the prints are packed and kept till sold or used the better. To facilitate close packing the square and brick forms are preferable to the roll and round print or pat.'

"But there is another objection to printing butter. The best judges of butter and most successful makers at the present day advise handling it, with or without tools, as little as possible. 'Working' is almost omitted in some of the most particular dairies, and much butter from large creameries having the highest reputation is actually not worked at all. In making print butter however a good deal of manipulation is necessary. Very generally the whole process of putting into print form is just so much extra handling after the butter is at its best. This needless handling or working injures the grain of the butter. Overworking is the most common fault in butter.

If butter is packed into tub, jar or other package, as directly from the churn as possible, these serious objections to print butter are avoided. I wonder that housekeepers and small consumers do not learn the advantages of small packages in which butter is packed in bulk. In some markets five-pound boxes and little pails holding six, eight and ten pounds have become quite popular. But while cheap and convenient, wood is by no means the best material in which to pack butter. Glass is the best, or porcelain and stoneware next.

"For local trade or near by consumers I know of nothing better than well glazed stone jars.

When serving a nice article of butter to private families and other customers who have been accustomed to rolls, balls and prints I was soon able to convince them that they could get a better article and keep it easier and better by packing in bulk from two to twelve pounds in stone jars. The butter is thus protected from the air and its grain and flavors well preserved. Moreover the maker is saved the labor and actual expense of putting the butter into print form, and this is quite an item.

WISCONSIN AND OREGON DAIRIES

At a meeting of the dairymen of this region the president of the association remarked that Wisconsin dairymen were more advanced and made better products than our own people do because they have better methods, etc. In this connection he quoted from Hoard's Dairyman issued from Wisconsin. To be plain he made a wholesale disclaimer that Oregon dairy products are not as good as they should be. Hoard's Dairyman tells very plainly how they do in Wisconsin, and THE OREGONIAN has quoted from its columns wherein it gives the reason why the present age of dairying can sell at lower price and make more clear profit than ever before. Why does not the president of the North Pacific Association lead off in the van of progress and show the rest of them how it can be done? Hoard says the secret of good and low priced butter is ensilage, that with ensilage to feed, modern dairies can make butter and make money at prices impossible in the past. Ensilage can be made in Oregon as well as anywhere, and if it is true, as the president so graphically asserts, that the Willamette region is unsurpassed for dairying facilities, then he should embark in the business according to modern system and methods and by his example make a positive proof of what so many believe to be an important truth.

THE COMING DAIRYMAN

The time is not far off when cheap cows will be too dear for any dairyman to keep, and the cost of keeping will make it necessary to secure the best and make the most of them. The improved breeds can be forced by feeding and made to yield certain returns, while common stock cannot produce the milk from what feed they get to make it profitable to feed them as dairy cows must be fed. Even good pasturage will not make it profitable to keep common cows, because the same pasture land if cropped by milk cows of the best breed or good grades from them will produce double the income for the cost and labor.

The competition in all lines of work increases as the means increase for doing business. The silo and the making of fodder into ensilage now have a great deal to do with butter manufacture. The best dairy authority in America claims that by using ensilage the profit on butter is greater at a lower price than it has been. It is plainly asserted that the silo furnishes cheaper food than even natural pastures can, and that the dairyman who tries to compete for custom against those who use ensilage while he follows the old style methods will not succeed. The Oregon dairyman must be alive to all these facts.

It is hardly necessary to say that small dairies must go. There is no possible way to compete with a modern creamery but with another creamery. The milk won't turn off as much cream, and the cream won't make as much butter as it does in the creamery process, by any of the old methods. The neighborhood that wishes to meet the demand of the times must construct a first class creamery and then manufacture first class butter and cheese and realize the profit there is in it.

TOO YOUNG BY HALF

People are sending to the agricultural journals the record of how young their Jersey heifers come with calf. The last one to reach us is of a fine Jersey heifer that dropped her first calf at thirteen months old [illegible] her second a year later. There is nothing to be proud of in permitting a creature to produce young thus prematurely. On the contrary it is rather a matter for regret. It may be that the heifer become a fine cow, but it is [illegible] question that if she had been allowed another year or even two of growth she would have made a much finer cow than she ever can after this premature beginning of the duties of maternity. If the object of the breeder is to improve the breed it cannot be attained by thus dwarfing and stunting growth and preventing development. It seems like a gain to secure increase as soon as possible, but it is only narrow visioned people who will be willing to encourage early breeding when maturity is necessary to secure the best results for both mother and offspring. The subject has been discussed upon all points, and the best authority is unhesitating in saying that the heifer should be in the third year when bringing her first calf. If such early maternity is encouraged the result will be deterioration of quality, and good-sized animals will become scarce. The milk-giving capacity depends on other conditions. The health, size and condition generally of the animal depends on full and timely development, which can not be expected where such early motherhood weakens and lessens the capacity and size of the animal.

CROSS BREEDING SHEEP

In reply to the query, "Is it profitable for the farmer to cross fine wool with coarse or middle wool rams?" Mr Henry Lee, among other statements, made the following at a sheep breeders' meeting in Lapeer county, Michigan.

We depend on three sources for the profits from sheep, viz, wool, mutton and increase. The grade of sheep that affords the largest profit with the least expense appears to be the most desirable.

To consider wool first, there has been of late a large demand for combing and medium wools at larger prices. The only way we can grow this wool is a cross between the fine and coarser breeds, the object being to increase the size of carcass and the length of staple. What cross are we to make? Will it be on fine ewes and a Leicester or Southdown ram? Mr Lee, judging from his own experience, says no; that the cross first named is an exceedingly poor one, and on the second named one is shortening the staple of wool with too much dryness. He thinks the safest cross to make is with a first class Oxford, with Hampshiredown or Shropshiredown. His experience with first class or grade ewes and a Shropshire ram has been productive of desirable results, which is increased size of carcass, length of staple and number of [illegible]. In regard to mutton Mr Lee said mutton has become an important factor in the meat consumption, so there is a large demand for mutton at high prices. He made in this connection a statement of what he thought it would be safe to reckon and compared the product in dollars and cents between 100 medium grade ewes and their lambs and 100 fine grade ewes and their lambs, with a balance of $1[illegible] in favor of the medium grades.

On the subject of increase Mr Lee stated his own experience, which with fine wool rams was a loss of 60 per cent of lambs for quite a number of years. Last year he crossed fifty ewes with a Shropshire ram and raised forty five lambs, a loss of only 10 per cent.

DON'T BELIEVE IN CROSSING

We have published the opinions of many men who favored crossing merino sheep with some of the leading down breeds, and now in an address made by Mr Rich before the Michigan Merino association we find the following advocacy of an opposite policy. The practice of using Shropshire or other long or middle wooled rams on grade flocks has reduced the demand for merino rams, and those making the change have by selling the cross bred lambs for mutton realized a fair profit from their flocks. But as experience has shown that but one cross of this kind is profitable, that in order to succeed you must go back to first principles, it is fair to presume that even this practice will be of short duration. Those who discard the merino sheep for those of other breeds with the hope of getting something that will require less care will be very much disappointed. While the lambs of some other breeds may require less care to start them, yet as a whole merino sheep are better calculated to be kept in large flocks and live on short pasture and coarse feed than any others. It is not impossible that with some changes in our method of breeding, which shall sacrifice nothing of value in fleece, that when fleece, sheep and care are taken into consideration merino lambs will prove quite as profitable for feeding as any other. It may be wise for the association to offer a premium for the fifty grade, or if you please full blooded merino lambs, to be sold for the shambles, not to exceed thirteen months of age, which show the largest profit to the breeder when cost of feed and value of fleece are taken into consideration. The result might be a surprise to many who have considered the merino so valueless as a feeder, especially as a lamb.—National Stockman.

ORCHARD GRASS FOR PASTURE

Orchard grass sown on the college farm two or three years ago makes an excellent showing for pasture again this year. Last season it furnished good pasture through most of the dry weather.

The first seeding was done in August. A mixture of grass seeds was sown in a wood land pasture where fire had cleared the brush and rubbish away, leaving the ground bare and mellow at the surface. The seed was covered with an old spike toothed harrow. Two years ago a mixture of orchard grass, blue grass, timothy, red top and red clover were sown in May on ground adjoining that seeded the year before. The seed was covered this time with garden rakes, as the logs and stumps were too numerous to permit the use of team and harrow. The season following the last seeding was a very dry one, but much of the seed grew, especially the orchard grass, making a good pasture. There is a fair showing of most of the grasses, but at this season of the year the orchard grass makes the best showing. It starts early pasture.

There are some good objections to sowing seed in the spring. One is this: If the pasture is used at once, as we want to do with such woodland pasture, stock will tread the young grass out more or less. Another reason is the danger of very dry weather before the grass gets well rooted. If sown in August or early September the grass will get well started in fall, and at this season the farmer can change his stock to other fields better than in spring.

Under the direction of Prof Johnson an acre of orchard grass has been sown in our experimental grounds with a view of testing its qualities for hay. It will be compared with other grasses which we are growing.—Mich [illegible] Country Gentleman.

BARRELLING APPLES

The president of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, Mr A D McAllan, makes the following suggestion on this subject: Choose a solid place on the ground and place a barrel upon a solid piece of plank. Lay the first course of apples with the stem end down. The packer should not take special samples for this course, but just take them as they come and place them so as to make a solid row on the bottom. The next row also should be put in carefully with the blossom end down. The barrel should be carefully shaken down on that solid plank after each basketful. When the packer comes to the top of the barrel he evens them off according to the variety. One variety will press down closer than another, and that is where a little judgment and experience is required. A man must know every variety he is packing in order to know how many to put in the barrel, whether he will fill it to the chime or an inch above the chime or even further. Then the last row has to be placed so as to be in an oval position before you put the press on, with the stems up, so that when you put the press on they will press down evenly and level, and afterward on opening the barrel you cannot tell at which end you commenced. That's a barrel packed properly, and it will carry and carry thoroughly.

If the apples before packing have been what we call sweated, and the best place to sweat apples is on the ground, they should if possible remain on the ground for a week after being picked from the tree; they will carry much better. Of course in wet weather they are better taken into the barn floor or some other convenient place, but as a rule they should remain for a week or ten days after being picked; the skin toughens in that time. I find quite a difference in the Northern Spy, which has such a tender skin; in places where they are left on the ground to toughen and get through this sweating process they will carry much better.

Before packing the first thing to do is to make up your mind how many grades you are going to have in the pile from which you are packing. There will be two grades at least, and the chances are not more than three. For instance take a Baldwin grown on the inside of a tree, that is apt to be rather green; that will be one grade. All the medium sized apples, have them all the one size as much as possible and pretty high colored; that is another grade. Grown at the top of the tree or on the outside limbs, apples will be much smaller but high in color; that will be your third grade. A barrel of apples when opened should be all as near of the one size and color as it is possible to have them. If you pack your barrels in that way and brand them accordingly, the buyers in Britain and elsewhere will soon get to know that that brand represents well selected, honestly packed apples, and the result will be that they will pay a fancy price for it. The price is not so much of a consideration with them as it is to get the very best article.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The Proceedings of the Session Held at Corvallis Last Week.

An Interesting Time—Papers Read and Discussion Had on Several Branches of Farming—Distinguished Visitors

The first of a series of farmers' institutes concerning which this journal has heretofore spoken was held at Corvallis last week, and the proceedings are taken in full from the Benton Leader published at Corvallis. It was not possible for an agricultural writer to be present, as he had been absent a month at the East, so the report is limited to the excellent account of it found in the Leader.

On last Thursday evening, November 15, the first farmers' institute of the series inaugurated by the State Agricultural College began its session. Mr M Wilkins of Lane county was chosen chairman and Professor Bristow secretary. President Arnold made an address of welcome. He said that he was present at the first teachers' institute organized in Benton county. The beginning was not nearly so encouraging as this, yet now rooms could not be had to hold the audiences. He hoped the same would soon be true of this organization. He spoke of the great need of such an organization and of the aims and objects of this one. Governor Pennoyer, who had been selected to respond, was absent, and Judge Boise was asked to fill his place, which he did. He said he had always taken a great interest in this college. The farmers of the state were becoming greatly interested in the success of it. Farming as a profession must be made honorable. The object of this institute and of this college is to raise the farmers up. One hundred and fifteen of the three hundred graduates of the Michigan Agricultural college are professional farmers. Oregon would be greatly benefited by one hundred and fifteen graduates of this college taking up the farmer's profession. Farmers should control the farmers' interests. Boards of trade should not be entrusted with the farmers' business. Farmers should be educated to take care of themselves. Prior to the civil war two thirds of the wealth of the country was in the hands of the laboring class. Now they have only 31 per cent. Liberty cannot long exist where a few become immensely rich and many become poor. The farmers have to bear the ills; they should have the honors. This is a scant synopsis of the very interesting address of Judge Boise.

Miss Hattie Friendly then executed a piano solo in an artistic manner.

The subject of prune culture, which was next on the programme, was deferred to next day owing to the absence of Mr Clarke, to whom the subject had been given.

"Chalk Talk" was Professor Hull's part, and he made his chalk talk by graphic and swiftly drawn illustrations on the blackboard. It was a new feature in college work and was greatly enjoyed by every body.

After a song by Miss Ollie Thompson, very sweetly executed, the institute adjourned until next morning at 8:30.

The institute met in the college chapel at the appointed hour, President Wilkins in the chair. A recess of one hour was taken because some of the members had not arrived. At 9:30 Mr Wallace Nash began a very instructive and interesting lecture upon the subject of "silos" and "ensilage." A lively discussion followed which showed increasing interest in this subject. Mr J D Johnson, an intelligent farmer of this vicinity, Mr Paulsen of Washington county, Judge Boise, Prof Grimm, Hon Ed Belknap of the Belknap settlement, Prof Arnold and others took part in the discussion. Judge Boise gave some observations he had made recently on a visit to Massachusetts. He said he had seen butter made there in December that was as good as could be made in June. He instanced a man who made money on stock on a ninety acre farm that cost $16 an acre to manure it. Mr Belknap said that as good corn had been raised by him on his place as could be raised anywhere. The only problem in corn culture in this valley was how to save it.

Mr Paulsen, who is a successful dairyman, read a paper on "Dairy Interests." In this paper and in his talk in the discussion of the subject Mr Paulsen showed what is too often lacking with farmers and dairymen—an accurate knowledge of details. There was no phase of the subject upon which he could not offer an explicit statement. He said not many farmers could tell with anything like accuracy how much milk it took to make a pound of butter. He said an intelligent dairyman wanted to start a creamery in his county and offered a cent a pound for milk. That would be about eight cents a gallon. The farmers around thought that was too cheap and would not sell the milk for that. Yet it took from twenty five to thirty pounds of milk to make a pound of butter, and these farmers were getting about four cents a gallon for their milk when they made butter from it and sold it at current prices. In the discussion that followed remarks were made as to the relative value of the different breeds of cattle for the dairy. Mr Paulsen said he had long been of the opinion that the Jersey was the best because they give the richest milk and made the highest-colored butter. He was now investigating the claims of the Guernsey for dairy purposes and had sent for an animal. The Holstein was the best for making cheese. When asked about the value of Short Horns for the dairy he said the Short Horns of England and this country were two different breeds. He thought our Short Horns were valueless for the dairy. They had been bred for beef. He used the old fashioned method of letting the milk set and not use a separator. Not that he had any objection to it. He thought the separator would give a small per cent more cream. He let the milk set for thirty six hours and kept the room at a temperature of 60 degrees.

The institute adjourned to afternoon, when Mr Nash read a paper on "Country Fairs," which had been prepared by Mr George Armstrong. The author of it was prevented from being present by sickness. As it is a suggestive paper on an important theme we have permission to print it entire, which we do in another place. The subject was then discussed. Judge Boise gave instances of the value of farmers meeting together. He said the great secret of New England's success was in their town meetings, which were perfect governments in themselves. He discussed the necessity of co-operation among farmers. He said that the rule now was for sellers of farm produce to be competitors among themselves to find buyers, whereas the buyers ought to be the competitors to find the produce. He thought the county fairs would help to do this. Mr Paulsen spoke of the county fair of his own county and said that it had not been the success it ought to have been because too much attention had been given to horse racing. He said he had no objection to races, but said they ought to be subordinated to the main purpose of a fair or done away with altogether. He said the fat stock show in Portland had been a success and there was no racing there.

The chairman, Mr Wilkins, was down on the programme for a paper on "Our Native Grasses." He said he had no paper, but he gave an interesting talk on the subject. He had some samples, but too few to do much good as illustrations, he said. He thought that the native grasses of Oregon were very valuable and ought to be attended to. Prof Clarke and Prof Grimm entered into a discussion, and a colloquy ensued among them as to the botanical terms.

At the evening session the exercises opened with music by Miss Emma Webber. A further discussion of the dairy business then ensued. Prof Hull then read an interesting paper on agricultural education to fill a vacant place on the programme.

The Misses Korthauer then sang a song with much effect.

Professor Grimm then read a paper on drainage which was excellent. He showed the object of drainage to be not only to get rid of the water, but to permit the circulation of air for the enrichment of the soil. He describes minutely the process of evaporation and the use of the soil thermometers, which indicated the effect of drainage by showing the temperature at different depths.

Mr Wilkins then spoke a few minutes giving his views of the college. He was much pleased with the building and thought it was admirably adapted to the uses for which it was intended. He approved of the work that had been done on the farm, but thought that the large ditch ought to be covered. He commended the good attention that had been given throughout and criticised the farmers for not giving a better attendance.

A vote of thanks was then tendered Judge Boise, Mr Paulsen and Mr Wilson for their presence and labors in behalf of the institute. The session closed with a song by Mrs Arnold, the accomplished wife of the president of the college. It was rendered with great feeling and evinced a cultivated voice.

Although the farmers' attendance was small, the interest manifested is thought to have justified the session. The older pupils were in constant attendance and could not fail to get many good ideas from the discussions. The next institute will be held at Salem.

BULLETIN NO ONE

The first bulletin issued from the Agricultural College and Experiment Station located at Corvallis comes to hand through the Corvallis Leader and will be found below. This is but a beginning of such work, and the public will look with great interest to their continuance. This bulletin is issued under the "Hatch Bill," and from henceforth that bill will be enforced and in operation. The public will look with interest on the work of the college and its experiment station, and regular bulletins will be issued every quarter and oftener if circumstances justify so doing.

The first bulletin required by the Hatch bill to be issued quarterly by the experiment station has been laid on our table. The first part of it is the history of the college and station, already familiar to the readers of the Leader. It also contains a copy of the Hatch bill founding the station, which has been printed in full by the Leader. The bulletin announces that on July 1st the board of regents appointed E Grimm director of the station, and in August E R Lake agriculturist and botanist, and P H Irish chemist. No experimental work has been done this fall, but active preparation has been made for it by the draining the farm, building a force house, the setting of soil thermometers and other things. The bulletin shows the necessity for additional land and buildings to carry on experiments.

The subjects which will receive the attention of the station are the following:

Study of the soils found on the farm and in different parts of the state. This will include a study of their natural conditions, the effects of drainage, of different modes of tillage, etc, best methods of maintaining and increasing their fertility, and the use and value of fertilizers. Additional work is planned in experimentation with different varieties and methods of cultivation of grains, grasses, roots and forage crops; on the sugar beet with a view to increasing its sugar contents; with different varieties of apples, prunes and peaches, studying the conditions most favorable for their highest development; on old orchards, including cultivation, best methods of protecting from moss; with forest trees and native grasses and clover.

In addition to this our chemists will make a thorough study of the chemical composition of our grains, from different parts of the state, of fodders and mineral waters. Thorough investigation of our insect pests and noxious weeds will be made, and of the diseases to which our plants are subject, with remedies for the same.

As "climate affects the cultivation of the soil, limits the various crops and determines the nature of the live stock suited to a given place," we hope soon to make the study of climate an important work of the station. It is well known that there are at least three distinct climatic conditions represented by the eastern, western and southern sections of our state, and to make the work of the station more effective we desire as soon as possible to establish branch stations in these sections to study the special problems suggested by the conditions found in these several localities. This seems to be more urgent at this time from the fact that orcharding, which a few years ago was not profitable on a large scale, is now the leading growing industry of the state, and this may be greatly benefited by judicious work at slight cost. Land suitable for this kind of work is offered, free of charge, to the station in Benton county, and we have no doubt but that in other portions of the state suitable lands can be procured or wider fields of study of these very important branches of agriculture.

It will be seen that certain work of great importance to the state is not included in the above plan, such for example as the investigation of the relative value of the various breeds of cattle for the purpose of dairy or for beef, relative cost of producing milk, butter, cheese, etc, and the most economical method of feeding to secure the best results. These are not included in our scheme of work because it is impossible with our present equipments to do work of value to them.

It therefore appears desirable that provisions be made at once for the erection of suitable buildings and purchase of land to render possible the carrying out of experiments in these lines. The station will have facilities for analyzing soils, dairy products, stock foods and the mineral waters of the state; for investigating all diseases of plants; for identification of insect pests and study of best methods of protection against their ravages; for testing purity and vitality of seeds. Such work will be done free of charge for the citizens of Oregon, when of public interest. The station cannot undertake private work.

The council desire to be in communication with the farmers of the state. Correspondence is solicited from those interested in the station giving suggestions, experience and any information that may aid the station in its work.

Bulletins will be issued quarterly and will be sent free of charge and postage to any newspaper of the state and all persons engaged in farming who may desire them. Those desiring the future bulletins of the station will signify the same by postal card.

All communications should be addressed Director Oregon Experiment Station, Corvallis, Oregon.

REMOVING OLD APPLE TREES

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman believes that irrigation with fertilizers will vastly improve worn out orchards. He says:

The trees that I tried my irrigating experiments upon, and under which a liberal application of phosphate and potash fertilizer was applied, have made a foot of growth at the end of the limb—Mr Thomas' test for health and vigor—hold their fruit almost to the last apple, and have very strong, full and healthy foliage. I am in hopes, by giving some non-bearing apple trees copious supplies of water during August and September in case it does not rain heavily, that I shall be able to promote the development of fruit buds and get a crop of apples next year.

I may say, even in this early stage of the experiment of watering apple trees to help the fruit to set after blossoming and to keep it on afterward, that it is a satisfactory success—a success that goes to confirm me in my previously expressed opinion that for the black soil of the prairie at least little more is wanted to promote vigorous growth and to secure fruit than moisture in the soil, and especially in the early summer and late fall seasons.

If fruit growers and amateurs would try this experiment on a small scale, dig up under the trees, apply twenty five pounds of fertilizer to each, make a trench to hold the drip and surplus rainfall around the tree corresponding with the outer spread of the limbs, and in case of drouth give each tree 1000 gallons of water, such a course would go far to bring the most stubborn non-bearing trees into fruitfulness.

Protection for Sugar Planters

Chicago Tribune

Mr Coleman, the republican congressman elect in the Second Louisiana district, says "he favors the highest kind of protection for sugar and rice." This is natural, but he must not expect that the party to which he belongs will share his ideas. The republicans have come to the conclusion that the 80 per cent duty on sugar and the 112 per cent duty on rice must go. They produce revenue for the treasury not needed and tax the whole country to pay bounties to a few Louisiana and South Carolina planters. The republicans see that before the war Louisiana produced from a half to a third of all the sugar used in this country, while it now grows only a twelfth to a thirteenth. In spite of the stimulus of the excessive bounty the production has fallen off a half since 1860, while the consumption has trebled. This indicates that the climate is not fitted for the sugar cane and the land should be turned into cotton or something else. If that were done the planters and their hands would alike be benefited. So with rice. The people of the North have been taxed enormously long enough to foster an unprofitable industry. The true principle of protection requires that both these tax burdens be taken from the shoulders of the people or greatly cut down. The senate bill is sound on this, while the Mills bill is rotten.

THE SIGHTS OF GOTHAM.

Portland Youth in the Metropolis of America

A Sketch of the Varied Scenes of the Great City as They Unfold Themselves to a Visitor

Special Correspondence of The Oregonian.

NEW YORK, Nov 17.—From Oregon to Utah, a day at Salt Lake City, then over the scenic route through Colorado, stopping at Denver, Chicago and Niagara falls. This was our route to New York, and it proved a most interesting trip. The scenery at the Royal Gorge in Colorado was grand beyond expression, Niagara falls was overcoming, and the Hudson with its palisades and beautifully tinted bluffs something worth mentioning; yet the silver gate of the Pacific, Mount Hood and Mount St. Helens being the gate posts, and the scenery around it cannot be surpassed. Where rolls the Oregon is made more grand by comparison, and it is to gather more appreciated when we gaze on other wonders of nature.

Another thing about Oregon and from the grandeur of its scenery, the fertility of its soil, the unparalleled though as yet undeveloped resources, the salubrity of its climate and other things good and worthy, is the beauty of its women. It might be supposed that we would say this, but it was also remarked by Mr Frank [illegible] Texas and [illegible] county. In a series of articles to the New York Herald a year or so ago he expressed this opinion with special reference to the fairness of their complexions. This we know to be the natural consequence of living in our excellent climate, and others some might think the result of using [illegible] celebrated preparation for the face by a local manufacturer.

Arriving at New York we proceeded in the following manner more or less to see the sights. Going down Broadway from Forty-second street, one of the first things to attract the attention of a stranger is the Metropolitan opera house, which is said to have the largest audience room in the world, having 122 boxes and seats for 6000 persons. On November 28 it will open for three weeks of grand opera in German, the repertoire being "The Huguenots," "Lohengrin," "William Tell," "L'Africaine," "Faust," "Don Juan" and "Das Rheingold," for the first time in the United States. Next and to the left is the Casino, a Moorish structure modeled after parts of the famous Alhambra. "The Yeomen of the Guard," now running there, has been severely commented upon by the critics, who do not think much of it. Nevertheless it draws well, and that is all that seems to be necessary these days. At the intersection of Sixth avenue, Thirty third street and Broadway is a lively place. Near this is Wallack's, where we saw the McCaull Opera company in "Boccaccio." Madison Square theater is near here on Twenty fourth street. The auditorium is about as large as the old New Market. It is most elaborately finished in fresco and carved wood, with an extra fine drop curtain. It has a movable elevator stage, and altogether is one of the best theaters in America. The play presented was "A Legal Wreck," and not much, except that it was extra well rendered, can be said of it.

Near Twenty eighth street is the Broadway entrance to the Fifth Avenue theater. We saw Booth and Barrett a few evenings ago in "The Merchant of Venice" as Shylock and Bassanio respectively. This is probably the strongest theatrical combination in the country. The entire cast is above the average, and the scenery is superb. Much could be said of the finished acting of these two wonderful men and of the acme of modern dramatic art as presented by the company, but as we're only observing things we'll pass on. The other theaters with a popular piece to crow are: The Lyceum, with Sothern as Lord Chumley, which is as enjoyable as any. It has been said that there is no need for him to learn another play; this will last a lifetime. It has however recently given way to "Sweet Lavender." Duncan Thompson in "The Old Homestead" will run all winter as it did last. We saw Margaret Mather in "Romeo and Juliet" and enjoyed a finished production. Mary Anderson is at Palmer's, and we'll see her before her engagement here closes.

We now come to Madison square itself, a park of about six acres containing trees, lawns, seats and statues of Seward and Farragut. It is the central point of life and splendor of upper New York. In this vicinity are to be seen the enormous white marble Fifth avenue hotel, the Albemarle hotel, the Hoffman house, Hotel Brunswick and Victoria, besides the many interesting stores with their very attractive show windows. Coming down a few blocks we come to Union square, containing about three acres. Around its borders is a scene of ever busy and picturesque life. The stores here are probably more attractive than at Madison Square. At Tenth street you notice the beautiful marble church. It is Grace Episcopal, and is rich in stained windows, carvings and paintings. It has a very charming chime of bells and is a very attractive building. Further down we come upon City Hall park of about eight acres. To the east of it is the newspaper abounding Park Row. Above all towers the Tribune building, and on the first window to the right, fourth story, is a sign, THE PORTLAND OREGONIAN, which is sure to call forth a smiling exclamation of recognition from the wandering webfoot who gazes on that familiar and at this distance especially friendlike name. The postoffice, near at hand, is an immense $7,000,000 structure and is the largest in the United States, though in outward appearance the Chicago postoffice is as fine and as large.

"The duty of a business man is to make money, the duty of a Christian is to spend it." These were Peter Cooper's sentiments. When we visited Greenwood we saw many magnificent monuments which took fortunes to erect. From Park Row can be seen the Cooper Union building, which cost $630,000. It, with its free schools of science, design, engraving, and its libraries and reading rooms, has already proved more of a monument to the memory of Peter Cooper than all the combined statues, vaults and monuments in Greenwood put together have to the dust that lies under them.

The next thing we notice is the Equitable building. It cost $8,000,000, is built of Quincy granite finished in rose colored and polished marble, red granite and tinted glass. Its tessellated court yard is the finest in America.

Wall street is next approached. It is about seven blocks long, little, but oh my!

It presents many frowning historical buildings, of which only one or two need be mentioned. The sub-treasury is noticeable, as it covers the spot where Washington was inaugurated president in April 1789. The centennial of that event will take place here with $175,000 worth of appropriate ceremonies next spring. President Harrison will come to New York over the same route as Washington did, and the programme to be carried out will be similar to the one which it celebrates.

We visited the stock exchange, and the incoherent shouting and violent gesticulations would lead one who did not know otherwise to think the names Bulls and Bears were given for a different purpose than they are.

Next to where Wall street opens on Broadway is to be seen the old Trinity church, which is the richest parish in America. In the churchyard are seen the graves of some of the most noted men and women of early days.

Passing on down the street we soon arrive at the end and notice a little oval park with a weary little fountain in the center, and now we are on historical ground. To the left is the produce exchange, said to be the most imposing and impressive building here. It cost over $3,000,000, and time only prevents a detailed description. The [illegible] of the members is probably more [illegible] than at the stock exchange, and to watch these men as they rush around gesticulating and yelling is certainly a strange sight.

In this vicinity were the headquarters of Lords Cornwallis and Howe, and of Sir Henry Clinton and of George Washington. Talleyrand's home was near here, as was also Benedict Arnold's. In 1732 the little park was enclosed "for the beauty and ornament of said street, as well as for the delight of the inhabitants of the city." It was here that the people congregated in 1776 to celebrate the Declaration of Independence, when they knocked down the statue of George III and moulded it into bullets. In turn it has been a treaty-ground with the Indians, parade for Dutch train bands and cattle market; later a park around whose borders scenes have been enacted (like the life-destroying great fire of 1776) which would make one's hair stand on end, and at other times with excitement so intense that the very ground has shaken.

The Battery is only a short distance from here. It is the oldest park in the city and covers about twenty acres. It has been a battery with aristocratic residences fronting on its lawns, while it is now a well kept park where emigrants just out of Castle Garden breath for the first time, while standing on our soil, the oftimes foggy and smoky yet free air of America.

Castle Garden is to the right and in the lower end of the Battery. It has been a fortress, reception hall, fashionable opera house, and is now the Gateway to America for thousands of emigrants. We watched the interesting sight of the landing of a ship's load.

A more interesting stroll than down Broadway is up Fifth avenue to Central Park. On top of one of the slow enough buses, with a directory, register and best of all an old resident, a pleasant Sunday afternoon was spent; one likely could not be more enjoyable.

Time does not permit at present of a description of this trip. The scenes presented in the perfect costumes of the promenaders, the dignity of the equipages and the variety and beauty of architecture afford a deep interest to the amazed and delighted sight seer. The [illegible] beauty and animation that [illegible] America [illegible] the world probably. This with the [illegible] the buildings, the magnificent churches, rich picture galleries and brown stone palaces lead us to believe that [illegible] the height of its splendor and glory, and Paris at the present [illegible] cannot present scenes equal to this.

SOME OF THE SCAPEGOATS

Cabinet Officers Who Told the President Fairy Tales. Manton Marble the Author of the President's Tariff Message

WASHINGTON, D C, Nov 21.—The post mortem examination of the Cleveland administration, which has been kept up since election, is bringing out some scraps of history which are interesting. The latest contribution to the subject is the statement that Whitney alone of all the cabinet officers opposed the president's tariff message, and that he had a quarrel with Vilas over the matter. Persons who are supposed to know say it is a fact that Whitney stood alone in his opposition, and that he did entreat the president not to send the document to congress. But an adviser of Mr Cleveland who was ever more powerful than Whitney took the same stand and was overruled. This was Col Dan Lamont. The private secretary thought it was bad politics to raise the issue on the eve of the presidential election. He is a keener judge of men than Cleveland, and at the outset he undertook to discount the gushing praise which Vilas, Dickinson and other leading democrats in the West were showering upon the president. Lamont had seen enough of Vilas to know that his leadership would never carry Wisconsin. Dickinson he looked upon as an enthusiast whose judgment was worthless. But Mr Cleveland was infatuated with the idea that he would make a tremendous break in the West which would more than compensate for the possible loss of New York and other Eastern manufacturing states. The two cabinet officers were sure he could rely on their states. Sterling Morton pledged Nebraska if the issue were made radical enough. Half a dozen democrats of national reputation vouched for Iowa and Minnesota. Illinois was carried by Springer and Townsend in their minds. With talk of this kind ringing in his ears it is hardly to be wondered that the president took the plunge. The debate on the Mills bill opened his eyes somewhat, but his confidence was not shaken. All through the campaign the wildest stories were told him about the great possibilities in the West, and he believed them. Lamont didn't. He thought at one stage of the canvass there might be a fighting chance for Michigan, but in the end he gave this up and based all his hopes of Cleveland's re-election on a tremendous majority in New York city. His judgment has been vindicated, and his friends say he stands higher than ever in Mr Cleveland's ideas of him as a political prophet. This may be of help to him for the strained relations he bore to his chief during a critical time. It is certain he does not think it necessary to conceal his contempt for some members of the cabinet.

It is said here that the real author of the tariff message was Mr Manton Marble. For twenty years Mr Marble has been eager to force tariff reform into politics as a distinctive issue. Mr Marble laid before the president his draft of a message such as he advised. This was the origin of the much-discussed document which in the opinion of many persons settled the presidential contest. As translated to congress there were some changes from Mr Marble's composition, but the main features were preserved, and in some of the idiomatic expressions the ex-editor's style can be easily recognized.

KILLED BY A FALLING TREE

Fatal Accident to a Recent Settler in Tillamook County.

Tillamook Headlight

D G Cole of Netarts was killed by a falling tree last Wednesday. Mr Cole and his wife were busily engaged sawing down trees, endeavoring to clear a tract of land upon which they intended to reside and make their home. Just at dusk, and the last tree they fell, the accident occurred. As the tree fell Mr Cole endeavored to dodge, when the butt end swung around and hit him in the back of the head, smashing in his skull and killing him at once. Mr and Mrs Cole came from California to Netarts, from Kansas there, their former home being in Arkansas.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

Prince Bismarck having been decorated with the title "Doctor of Divinity," it will now be in order to speak of him as "the Rev Mr Bismarck, D D."

Col D R Anthony is talked of in Kansas as the coming postmaster general. A state with 80,000 majority does not propose to be left out in the cold when the distribution takes place.

Colorado's official count is as follows: Harrison's plurality 12,643, Cooper (governor) 10,160. Cleveland and Patterson carried but one county in the state. Las Animas is its name.

Senator Allison is said to have written a letter to a friend in New York in which he declares that under no circumstances would he accept a cabinet office even if one were offered him, but that no such tender has been made, nor does he expect that one will be.

The third party prohibitionists had great faith that their party would have a large vote in the South, and that this vote would come from the democrats. The official count shows that Gen Fisk received 218 votes in Mississippi and 583 in Alabama.

The Confederacy coined but four silver half dollars, it is said, and the holder of one of them lately refused $950 for it. Yankee enterprise should here find an opening in the production of fac similes, as in the case of the early attempts at newspaper.

Who says that literary effort is not remunerated in this country? Mrs Humphrey Ward received $600 from an American publisher for "Robert Elsmere," and 100,000 copies of the book have been sold. [illegible] give her a royalty (?) of half a cent on each copy.

Sir Sackville West put $7000 into his inside pocket as the result of the sale of chipped china, old rugs worn down to fancy prices, [illegible] old and unregenerate and [illegible] furniture to Anglo-maniacs. The [illegible] letter to the [illegible] baggage that he carried back to England.

Ben Harrison recently told [illegible] who [illegible] from Washington who [illegible] him to [illegible] a pew in the new Church of the [illegible] that he had already secured a [illegible] of the Presbyterian churches in Washington, as he did not intend to confine himself to any one particular parish.

"The South is solid," says the Louisville Courier-Journal, "not so much from the lack of independence as from the conviction on the part of our people that the principles of the democratic party are essential to the preservation of liberty. Men in the south vote the democratic ticket because they are democrats." If this be true, why do prominent Southern journals on the eve of election think it necessary to warn their readers that any white man who votes the republican ticket will become a social outcast?

PEARS' SOAP is the most elegant toilet adjunct.

R Hochkofler in his monthly review of the coffee market says This staple has been very dull during the last three weeks several causes contributing to this effect foremost of which was the political excitement attending the presidential election which invariably interrupts all business The approach of the end of the year also indisposes dealers to increase stocks and this backwardness has been further intensified by the fluctuations of the article in the Eastern markets and the consequent uncertainty of the immediate future of prices Under such circumstances importers have realized the impracticability of effecting sales and with the exception of a few minor holders have abstained from pushing their coffees notwithstanding this however prices have been affected by the general dullness and although still maintained at former quotations by the principal holders they are at present entirely nominal and unobtainable As has been the case lately buyers have continued to give preference to the cheapest priced good coffees the bulk of the limited transactions since last report consisting of bleached unwashed Salvador and unwashed Guatemala The future rests entirely upon the extent of the present and growing Brazil crops about which opinions are still at great variance Receipts in the two principal ports have certainly been retarded by copious rains which many assert have also injured the prospects of the next crop but the latter assertions are generally considered premature The receipts in Rio and Santos from July 1 to November 18 compare as follows with the four preceding years

WHEAT—Foreign advices are of a little healthier tone and Eastern markets advanced a peg to day The local market is dull Quote Eastern Oregon $1 40 and Valley $1 45@1 47½ Eastern mail dates report the Chicago market as follows On each decline the long wheat pours out on the market in a large and ever increasing stream and it appears as though the momentum would soon be so great there can be no stopping it. Yet the wheat market is getting into a better and healthier state Chicago is dropping back into line with the rest of the world and general trade is increasing as the element of manipulation becomes more a thing of history During the last few days a great lot of stubbornly held wheat has come out and to-day two or three big lines went overboard and a great mass of stuff went out on stop order limits having been reached The shorts were the principal buyers and it does not seem as though the market was oversold to a dangerous extent An old and a very careful observer who rarely allows his prejudice or sentiment to cloud his judgment unburdened himself in this wise The syndicate or combination that smashed the market down with a great mass of speculative offerings the other day has covered its wheat, I should say, and possibly made a turn on the other side The break brought out a big lot of wheat on stop orders The market is now about even I should judge, and ripe for another raid It will continue to present temptations so long as our prices are out of line. I want to state however that we are rapidly approaching a legitimate basis and I cannot see why operators should engage in short selling as courageously or as heavily as when the prices were 10@12c higher I hear of some flour being worked for export and foreigners are not so indifferent as our Eastern or foreign advices indicate

FREIGHTS—The situation in freights and charters has been further weakened by the arrival of the Assel, reported as disengaged This makes three spot vessels in port, and indications point to a break in rates For iron, immediate shipment 46s 3d was offered to-day but was not accepted Shippers however feel confident of securing all the vessels they want at that figure or even less and are averse to making any better offer We quote nominal rates 45 @46s 3d

Ringing Noises

In the ears sometimes a roaring buzzing sound or snapping like the report of a pistol are caused by catarrh that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine

I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh and received great relief and benefit from it The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter causing constant discharge from my nose ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold" Mrs G B Gibb, 1029 Eighth street N W Washington D C

WHY YOU SHOULD USE
Scott's Emulsion
of Cod Liver Oil with HYPOPHOSPHITES.

It is used and endorsed by Physicians because it is the best.

It is Palatable as Milk.
It is three times as efficacious as plain Cod Liver Oil.
It is far superior to all other so-called Emulsions.
It is a perfect Emulsion, does not separate or change.
It is wonderful as a flesh producer.
It is the best remedy for Consumption, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Wasting Diseases, Chronic Coughs and Colds.

Sold by all Druggists.

THE TARIFF IS OF LITTLE INTEREST

To those who are suffering from Coughs Colds Chest Pains, Pneumonia Rheumatism, Sciatica and other pains so general at this season of the year Such sufferers feel far greater interest in BENSON'S PLASTER a remedy which never fails to afford prompt relief when faithfully and intelligently used. This plaster has made a reputation solely on its merits a scientific remedy compounded on scientific principles by chemists of undoubted ability and integrity Its great and increasing popularity has induced unscrupulous imitators to put many fraudulent counterfeits on the market. Careful buyers always ask for BENSON'S PLASTER and refuse all other.

THE SMALLPOX IS DYING OUT

Prompt Action by the Local Authorities Checks the Dread Disease.

No New Cases Developed in a New Location in Twelve Days—Patients in the City Convalescing

At present there are only seven cases of smallpox in the city These are distributed as follows Mrs Wm O Donnell living on Salmon street between Third and Fourth streets a little boy and girl aged respectively 9 and 7 years in the Frischkorn family on Washington between Fifth and Sixth streets Elisha D Kellogg a young man aged 23 years and a little brother aged 12 years living with the Wray family at No 345½ Twelfth street and two a young man and a boy in the Caspari family living on the corner of E and Eighth streets

There is not another case to the knowledge of the authorities within the corporate limits of the city at this time

The Chinese Joss house on Second street between Alder and Morrison is still quarantined although none of the five Chinamen exposed to the disease at the time the Chinaman died there have shown any signs of the contagion

No new cases in a new location have been developed within the past twelve days or since the time the Chinaman was brought here from the Oregon Pacific front and died at the Chinese joss house

At the smallpox hospital there are only seven patients Five of them are almost entirely well one is convalescing and one is still quite dangerously sick This case is that of the man Smith taken from Fifth and Jefferson streets several days ago It is in fact the only critical case under treatment at this time

The patients in the city in five different localities are all convalescing and improving as rapidly as possible The houses have been kept under strict quarantine and the officers appointed to keep guard have done their work faithfully hence the gratifying success in keeping the disease under control Chief of Police Parrish Mayor DeLashmutt and Dr Meyer city physician are themselves surprised that the disease did not spread any further than it has

It is true that they have exercised every precaution but at times the weather has been very favorable for a spread of the dread malady and that good success has attended their efforts in staying the ravages of this disease is a source of congratulation

In East Portland no new cases have been reported during the past week In the smaller suburban towns where the disease had made its appearance it generally disappeared with the first patient It has always been confined and in no instance has it assumed an epidemic form The indications now are that soon the verdict can be uttered that the disease is stamped out

FALSE REPORTS FROM ABROAD

A gentleman who recently came from Tacoma when speaking to a citizen of Portland about the smallpox said There are cases of the disease both at Seattle and Tacoma, just how many I don t know The papers and the people keep it very quiet and you hear very little about the disease at home But you do hear a great deal about the smallpox in Portland Why to credit the reports in circulation especially at Tacoma, one would be led to suppose that there was a case at almost every other house in the city The fact that the disease exists there seems to be overlooked in the eagerness and haste of both press and public to circulate the scores of utterly false reports about the great prevalence of the disease in Portland

From day to day THE OREGONIAN has published the exact facts about the cases reported to the authorities in Portland All other rumors to the contrary may be emphatically set down as pure fabrications either of fancy or prompted by motives to injure the business interests of the city

A LYING DRUMMER.

Mr Frank Botefuhr yesterday received a letter from friends at the Cascade Locks making inquiries as to the extent to which smallpox prevailed here stating that J Solomon a cigar drummer had told them it was not safe to visit this city He probably thought he could sell a few more cigars by telling such a yarn

HOW IT MAY BE CONTRACTED

The suggestion has been made and it seems a very plausible one that one way of contracting the disease is by purchasing and wearing second hand clothes One instance may be cited in support of the statement

Several weeks ago a young man of excellent character for sobriety industry and steadiness took the disease and was removed to the hospital He did not have a very malignant type of the disease and recovered A short time prior to his contracting the disease he purchased a very nice suit of black clothes at a second hand store in the city The suit was offered very cheap and for that reason the young man purchased the clothes He says he must have contracted the disease from the clothing for he cannot imagine where else he caught it

ESCAPED CONVICTS

Forbes From Spokane and Quinn From McNeil's Island Will be Returned

Two escaped convicts have been under guard in this city awaiting the arrival of the proper authorities from Washington territory A man named Forbes a refugee from the county jail at Spokane Falls was arrested in this city some time ago on a charge of roaming the street at late hours He was suspected of being an escaped jail bird even before his arrest A description of the man and a photograph were sent to the authorities at Spokane Falls, who at once recognized him as a prisoner having lately taken his debut from that city It is not known on what charge he was kept in durance vile in that city, but the authorities have agreed to come after him at once While in this city Forbes went under the alias Collins, and there is even yet some doubt as to his real name

A man answering to the name of Quinn was arrested here for being implicated in a safe robbery several weeks ago Quinn had a preliminary hearing in the police court and was bound over to appear before the grand jury The grand jury examined into his case and returned not a true bill It was learned however that Quinn was wanted at McNeil s island up the Sound from which place he had taken his departure without going through the usual formalities of a discharge The authorities were communicated with and desired to have Quinn held An officer is expected this morning and Quinn will be returned to his late home on the island across the bay from Steilacoom

WILL SLUICE AT ST HELENS

The Geo W Elder Secured by the Government to Work on the Bar

Yesterday morning Maj Jones went down on the tender Lincoln to where the Elder was lying at the powder grounds and took a look at her with a view to her power and availability for sluicing at St Helens bar

The examination proved satisfactory and the ship was chartered As soon as her cargo is put in for the next week s down trip she will go down to the bar where the anchors will be awhile be laid and work out a channel 1000 feet long by 150 feet wide She will be loaded down to eighteen feet draft which will insure a clear channel of twenty feet The ship will require about 200 tons of Franklin coal for the whole trip She will go on to San Francisco immediately after finishing her work

TWO UNLUCKY SONS OF THE BRINY

One Bruised Up—The Other in All Probability at the Bottom of the Willamette

A sailor of the Trongate's crew which ship is at the flour mills on the east side fell from the trestle work near his ship last Sunday night and ran a narrow risk of losing his life As it was he luckily escaped with some severe contusions of the body

Capt Bennett of the British bark Embleton has been advertising for the past week for C Curling, a missing sailor boy of his crew A piece of collateral evidence has come to light which leaves scarcely any doubt that the boy is drowned

It seems that on Tuesday evening about 6 30 o'clock, young Curling and a comrade were standing together on the deck of the ship where she now lies at Irving dock The crew were all at mess Curling had occasion to go upon the wharf for a few moments and stepped across the gang plank His companion did not wait for his return but went into the forecastle Curling did not reappear and when a short time after the crew began to come on deck they called for the lad and went ashore to find him Day after day has gone by and no signs of him have manifested themselves The captain of the Albina ferry boat alleges that about that time of the evening he heard a distinct splash at the ship but as it was accompanied by no outcry he thought no more of it at the time Undoubtedly the boy struck the ship s or the dock s side in going down and was rendered unable to call for help

THE COAST'S ONLY DELEGATE

Col McCraken Represented 1,000,000 Square Miles of Country at Chicago

The National Board of Trade Rapidly Growing in Influence and Importance—Business in Good Condition

Col John McCraken returned yesterday from Chicago where he represented the Portland Board of Trade in the annual session of the National Board of Trade Singular as it may seem he was the only delegate from the Pacific coast

"When I told the 100 delegates representing all the principal boards of trade and chambers of commerce in the nation that I was the only delegate from a section of country embracing nearly 1 000 000 square miles they opened their eyes in wonderment and seemed to comprehend the immensity of our country he said to an OREGONIAN reporter yesterday I was greatly disappointed to find that California was not represented in the meeting That state and Oregon has been represented in the past by her senators and congressmen but they were all home this year and there was no one on hand to look out for her interests

The national board of trade is growing in influence and importance every year and its constituency is rapidly extending Many applications for membership were received this year from boards of trade and chambers of commerce in different states and it will be but very few years before every state in the Union will be in this great body It has been customary to meet annually in Washington but the last session was held in Chicago and Louisville will be the meeting place next year This changing about policy awakens an interest in the affairs and proceedings of the board in places where the annual session is held Its recommendations to congress are signed by its officers and bear its seal and copies are furnished to every member of the two houses of congress Its efforts to secure legislation are seconded by the organizations which constitute it and altogether a big influence is wielded

How was the meeting disposed toward Oregon?

The feeling was very kindly indeed The delegates listened kindly and attentively to what I had to say While there was some slight objection because the question which I spoke of had been raised before I had the help of the Western members while the Mississippi valley delegation joined with the delegate from Oregon in favor of the improvement of rivers and harbors The New York men were not so much interested in this matter because they have secured about all the improvements they want The board passed a general resolution praying for the improvement of rivers, harbors and water ways and asking congress not to delay by meager or insufficient appropriations the completion of public improvements when once the work is begun

Besides the subject of credits the board discussed the making of uniform laws for the collection of debts and other matters of interest to business men In conversation with delegates and others and from personal observation I learned that business throughout the country is generally in good shape and that the country is prosperous Of course in a few localities where crops have been injured by frost the situation is not so favorable but all in all business men are in good spirits

ALL HAVE SOME OF THE HOG

Some of the Reasons Why We Have No Reform in Levying Taxes

Several taxpayers were discussing the subject of assessing city property yesterday and the possibilities and probabilities of any reform in our present poor system

There seems to be no way of increasing the city assessment said one as we have to copy the county roll for the city The county has no proper block books and the roll is always full of errors

The county court and the assessor know the assessment is not right said another and we all know it is not right We are all trying to steal from each other and in so doing steal from ourselves

A piece of property he continued was sold for $30 000 a few days since which is assessed for $6000 Another piece adjoining which was assessed last year for $100 000 is this year assessed for $70 000 which is about a fourth of what it should be assessed But as the owner remarked Why should I pay full taxes on unimproved property when my neighbor pays taxes for his improved property on a less amount than what he receives as rents from the property?

There is a good deal of talk about the reform in the matter of levying taxes said another but the fact is none of us want reform I did till I bought property but now I am like all the rest, I want the assessment made low If property were assessed at its value it would not be possible to make $1000 indebtedness cover up $10 000 worth of property The fact is we have all got some of the hog

TURKEYS FOR THE MILLION

Magnificent Display at McGuire & Co s the Finest Ever Seen in Portland

The majority of our citizens will be able to secure a Thanksgiving turkey owing to the forethought of Messrs McGuire & Co the energetic and enterprising poultry dealers who have secured 750 of these fowls from Southern Oregon and who will make the grandest display of turkeys ever seen in Portland at their place corner of Third and Morrison streets this morning The birds are all dry picked and were killed on the ranche where they were raised and are much superior to those which have been cooped up for several days and killed in a feverish condition As usual Messrs McGuire & Co have a fine lot of fat geese, ducks and chickens and game of all kinds, while their sidewalk is piled with Eastern oysters in cans and in the shell and native oysters They are bound to keep up their reputation by having the best and the first of everything in their line in the market

THE GREATEST OF THESE IS CHARITY

All Benevolent Persons are Reminded of the Children's Home

A committee of ladies of the Woman's Relief Society will be at the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church corner of Washington and Third streets, from 10 A M to 4 P M to day to receive such parcels as may be brought in for the Children s Home

A wagon will call at the stores and places of business but any who wish to contribute to the children s thanksgiving and are not called upon by the expressmen can send to the above mentioned place where their donations will be gratefully received by the ladies in charge

The ladies in making their calls yesterday were not able to find many who were out of their offices and places of business To all such the ladies wish to say that if any who were not called upon in person desire to make donations of money clothing or groceries their offerings will be most thankfully accepted

COL. BEEBE VS. CAPT. RILEY.

Battery A's Commander Tells His Side of the Story to a Reporter

He Says the Colonel Boasted He Would Ruin the Battery—The Trouble to Be Investigated To night

The talk in National Guard circles is the controversy between Col C F Beebe the commanding officer of the First regiment and Capt W J Riley of Battery A the former s appeal to the county court for relief having brought the long brewing trouble to an issue

A court of inquiry will convene at the Armory at 8 o clock to night to investigate the matter

Appended is the full text of Col Beebe s letter to the county court briefly mentioned in yesterday s issue

[illegible] Nov [illegible] 1888

Hon John Catlin Judge of Multnomah County Oregon Sir—I have the honor respectfully to state that I have declined to permit Battery A First artillery O N G Capt W J Riley to occupy the large drill room in the Multnomah county armory for reasons as follows

On or about April 15 1888 the battery occupied quarters in the armory and since that date have been burning gas furnished and paid for by this regiment and have as yet paid nothing therefor although repeatedly requested to do so both verbally and in writing I have always recognized the right of the battery to its proper share in the use of the large drill room and I have frequently given assurance to its representative to that effect stating that I would at any time make arrangements with this in view upon a satisfactory determination of an equitable share in the expense of maintaining the building to be borne by the battery

Early in May I was waited on by a committee from the battery of which the first lieutenant was chairman for the purpose of effecting such arrangement It was agreed with this committee that the sum of $15 per month would be an equitable share for the battery to bear in the expense of maintaining the building and also that a portion of Monday evening in each week should be set aside for the use of the large drill room by the battery for the purpose of drill I offered at the time to assign the use of the room on Saturday evenings to the battery that being the only unoccupied evening in the week but the committee declined stating that the members of the battery could not be got together on that evening and that they decidedly preferred Monday evening as it had been the regular drill night

The committee stated to me that unless I heard from them in a few days to the contrary I might assume that their action had been ratified by the battery and that the arrangement as agreed upon would go into effect

Not hearing further from the battery on May 1 in General Orders No 11 c s these headquarters I provided for the use of the large room by the battery as follows in paragraph 8 "The use of the large drill room by Battery A O N G Capt W J Riley on Monday evening in each week from 9 until 10 30 o clock for the purpose of dismounted drill is hereby authorized" having previously notified Capt Riley of my intended action under date of May 16 It was with some difficulty that I was able to make this arrangement, as the room was used by Company I of this regiment on the evenings in question and strong objections were made to the necessary curtailment of their drill

No attention was paid by the battery to this arrangement no answer was received to my communication no money was paid into the regimental fund and the battery did not use the large room on Monday evenings On August 18 I received a communication from Capt Riley giving notice that the battery would use the large drill room on Saturday evenings, to which I replied under date of August 21 as follows

HEADQUARTERS FIRST REGIMENT INF O N G
Portland Oregon August 21 1888

Capt W J Riley commanding Battery A first artillery O N G—Sir I am directed by Col C F Beebe to acknowledge the receipt Saturday last of your communication bearing date of July 31 [illegible] these headquarters dated May 16 1888 assigned to your battery the use of the large drill room on Monday evenings in each week from 9 to 10 30 o clock for the purpose of drill This arrangement was made in conformity with an agreement reached between the commanding officer of this regiment and a committee representing your battery The armory has been held subject to your use at the time named but no intimation with reference to the matter has been received from you An agreement was also reached with your committee prior to the date of the issue of the order referred to by which your battery was to pay into the regimental treasury commencing April 15 1888 the date of your occupation of the armory the sum of $15 per month as its proper share of expenses in maintenance of the armory No payment of money has yet been made and it is undesirable for this regiment to longer bear entirely a burden which should be shared by your battery Col Beebe does not feel justified in [illegible] your proposal of July 30 until you fulfill the agreement already reached

I am therefore to [illegible] hand you herewith a bill for your share of armory maintenance to September 15 next and request your prompt settlement of the same

I have the honor to remain sir very respectfully your obedient servant

RALPH R [illegible]
First Lieutenant and Acting Adjt

Inclosed in this was a statement for five months at $15 per month, amounting to $75 No attention was paid to this communication and no money has been paid to the regiment

A few weeks since I was called upon by the first lieutenant of the battery who presented a statement of account with the regiment showing as follows

Due the First regiment for gas consumed	$57 50
Due Battery A share of proceeds of ball in February last	2 00
Balance due regiment	$[illegible]

He stated the battery was willing to pay this amount I was somewhat indignant at this apparent trifling with the matter and stated to him that the battery had no interest in the ball and were entitled to no share in the proceeds I further stated to him that I desired to have payment made at once of money due the regiment, and that I would not permit them to use the large room and become obligated for further indebtedness until that already existing was settled I stated to him that in order to effect a settlement I would discard all arrangements heretofore made and accept payment for gas actually consumed by the battery during the period of its occupation of the armory after which I would arrange with them for their use of the large room upon terms to be made mutually satisfactory I have since heard nothing from them and the whole matter still remains unadjusted

I respectfully state that I am and have been at all times willing to accord the battery the fullest exercise of its rights to all the privileges of the armory but respectfully submit that it should be expected and required to bear an equitable share in the expense accruing to this regiment in the maintenance of the building

Each company in the regiment quartered in the armory receives from the state $25 per month which it pays into the regimental fund The battery receives the same and as yet has paid nothing into the fund

Respectfully requesting your forbearance at the length of this communication and regretting that the action of the battery in appealing to you for relief has made it necessary for me to lay the matter before you I have the honor to remain sir very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHARLES F BEEBE
Col Comd g First Infantry O N G Custodian Multnomah County Armory

CAPT RILEY S STATEMENT

An OREGONIAN reporter called on Capt W J Riley, commanding Battery A yesterday and asked him for his statement of the affair He was at first disinclined to talk but concluded to say a few words in his defense

Col Beebe has been trying very hard for a long time to freeze us out of the armory he said He has stated that he would drive the battery He has not said as much to me but to officers under him who have told me

Battery A has no desire to enter into a controversy with Col Beebe or to create any disturbance in the regiment We only want to get what belongs to us what is right for us So far as the First regiment is concerned we have nothing to complain of The trouble is with Col Beebe We are entitled to as much room in the armory as any of the companies It is not a regimental armory nor a First artillery armory but the Multnomah county armory

We have nice comfortable quarters in the armory but we are under obligations to no one for them as we fitted them up at our own expense When we first occupied our portion of the building Col Beebe offered us the use of the large drill room on Saturday evenings for $15 a month Then he wanted us to take Monday night in conjunction with Co I and the committee of the battery which waited upon him told him that if that arrangement was satisfactory a report to that effect would be made On being put to a vote the offer was rejected by the battery and no wonder Col Beebe s idea was to let us have the drill room after 9 P M and we were to have it for an hour and a half That was a pretty proposition wasn t it Since we came into the armory we have drilled in the big room once and then just three quarters of an hour We have drilled in our own quarters among pillars and posts, and not infrequently out doors in the rain

The amount of the controversy is that we have never been allowed to drill in the large room because we have refused to pay the outrageous charge of $15 a month Col. Beebe charges that we agreed to pay this amount but we did not However we did offer to pay him what was right and reasonable but he would not accept We agreed to be responsible for one sixth of the entire gas bill which is more than our proportion when you consider that we burn gas only in our meeting room Gas is burned in each of the six company rooms, in the large room of the board of officers, in Col Beebe s quarters in the room of the non commissioned officers In the band room and in the large drill room which is let to outside persons for parties and balls while the regiment and its companies frequently gives entertainments Yes sir we offered to pay one sixth of this charge for gas if we were allowed the use of the large drill room If that was not fair I don t know what is

Beside socials are given at the armory every Saturday night, and an admission fee is charged Who gets this money? We have never received any benefit from these socials and the armory belongs to us as much as to the First regiment

Then again Col Beebe wanted us to help pay the salary of the armorer though he does not take care of our quarters, simply looking out for the arms and equipments of the regiment We employ a man to take care of our quarters

When the regiment [illegible] we were attached to the regiment [illegible] Col Beebe promised to give us [illegible] but he never gave it to us

Battery A is not [illegible] At the request of Col [illegible] my knowledge or consent [illegible] the battery to the First [illegible] request he subsequently [illegible] first place Col Beebe wrote to [illegible] us attached by making him [illegible] objection but rather was favorable [illegible] Then I wrote to Gen Sigel asking [illegible] detachment In his answer [illegible] he inferred from Col Beebe s statement [illegible] it was my wish to [illegible] the regiment [illegible] would not have issued the order [illegible] was in my office Col Beebe [illegible] affably said "Captain I [illegible] informed by [illegible] battery had been attached to the [illegible] can readily conceive my feelings when [illegible] sider that at that very moment I was reading Gen Sigel s letter [illegible] ment was made at Col Beebe s [illegible] be dissolved at my request This happened [illegible] a year ago

NO LIGHTERAGE NEXT SUMMER

That is the Condition Towards Which Every Indication Points—The Work Done and to be Done

Portland may view with no small amount of satisfaction the outlook for the condition of her water routes the coming year

The appropriations made by the government have been larger than ever before given and will do more for the upbuilding of our commerce than any act of this outgoing administration

THE UPPER WILLAMETTE

There is every probability that the two snag boats Corvallis and Willamette will be put upon the upper river the coming spring The appropriation for that purpose was $1[illegible] 000 of which only about $2000 has been used the present season leaving a balance which it is thought will be adequate to keep navigation open

There is no possibility of a break in the channel at Corvallis as the threatened bend has been thoroughly fortified Of the $11 000 appropriated for the revetment work $11 000 remain which will be used beginning with the early spring decline of water to extend and complete that enterprise

FROM PORTLAND TO THE SEA

It is the settled purpose of the government officers to maintain next season with its cessation a minimum depth at low water on all the bars between Astoria and the port of twenty feet Conversation with government concerning the already [illegible] and the proposed improvements leaves little room for doubt that such will be the case

At Swan Island the city dredge has only two or three days more work at her task of deepening the channel The work of the boat has been in every way satisfactory, and has thoroughly set at rest all doubts as to its admirable serviceability Next spring work will here be renewed and the present excavation doubled to a width of 200 feet

ST HELENS AND MARTIN S ISLAND

The jetty at St Helens is entirely completed The mattresses of stone and brush are all laid along the upstream edge of the thousand odd feet of piling and nearly all on the lower side No further trouble is anticipated here but if sluicing is needed it will be done The same is true of Martin s island where the slough on one side is quite deep and on the other nearly closed

With twenty feet at low water there is scarcely a ship now making this port but can come to Portland at high tide with every pound of her cargo Some of the old type narrow and deep hulls may not but the increasing tendency of modern ship building is to wide flat frames which it is said do not materially decrease the vessels speed and add importantly to her list of available harbors in every maritime country

A PIOUS SWINDLER

While Representing Himself as an Enthusiastic Religionist He Borrows Money and Decamps

On or about the 1st of November a young man about 30 years of age giving his name as L M Doyle arrived in this city from Denver Col Doyle represented himself as a contractor from Denver

Holding what was supposed to be a genuine membership ticket in the Y M C A of that city he soon ingratiated himself into the confidence of the association here Secretary I W Beers who furnished an OREGONIAN reporter with these facts stated that the man appeared to be deeply interested in religious work He took an active part in the work in this city and from his pleasing says winning manners and apparently sincere interest in religious matters he fast made friends with whom he came in contact

He remained here in the city for several days and then went to The Dalles for the purpose of engaging to work for a company building warehouses at that place and other towns along the river Before leaving he placed a watch in pawn with Mr Beers receiving therefor the sum of $10

While at The Dalles he made three or four contracts with the company for building elevators and also several for private dwellings At that place he worked the religious dodge the same as he did here and there also gained the confidence of the people On the strength of his contracts he borrowed money from responsible parties at that place He again returned to this city on the 14th and redeemed his watch He also asked Mr Beers to go back with him to The Dalles and there help revive and reorganize the religious work of the association This Mr Beers respectfully declined to do not for any suspicion that he might have had regarding the man s character but on account of his time and attention being required with the association here Doyle then again went to The Dalles borrowed some more money and decamped

Mr N H Jacks the traveling secretary of the association who arrived in the city from The Dalles yesterday states that Doyle went away with $2000 or $3000 Just now he is badly wanted There are warrants out for his arrest both at The Dalles and Denver and should he be apprehended there are perhaps other towns which would be equally glad to see him

It is now learned that the membership ticket of the Y M C A at Denver was a fraudulent one It is not known which way the swindler went from The Dalles but he evidently disappeared as mysteriously as he came

AUTOMATIC ENGINES.

TACOMA W T Feb, 23, 1888.

Messrs Russell & Co Portland, Oregon—Gentlemen We have been running the automatic engine bought of you for a week or more and so far we are much pleased with it. Our engineer says it is the best engine he ever ran, and he has had extensive experience in building and running of engines. What he notices especially is its uniformity of action under varying load. He tested it with his speed indicator and found there was no change in the number of revolutions when the dynamo was plugged in or cut out. * * *

Yours truly,

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE.

For quick raising the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light sweet, most palatable and nutritive food Bread biscuits, muffins, cake, etc raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs It will keep in any climate without deterioration

Prof H A Mott, U S Government Chemist, after examining [illegible] [illegible]ly principal baking powders of the country reported

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public
